Quick Decision Expected on East Coast Gasoline Crisis

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — A speedy decision on the east coast oil and gasoline problem was anticipated today as economic Czar James F. Byrnes held his second conference in three days with the heads of federal agencies dealing with petroleum.

At the initial conference, the former supreme court justice promised improved rationing and supply methods. A spokesman for Byrnes indicated that today's meeting may be the last.

"You know the justice—he's inclined to speedy decisions," the spokesman commented. "Once he has all the facts in a situation, he likes to move quickly."

Byrnes previously moved to obtain the facts by demanding suggestions "in writing" from the three officials. Meeting with him today were OPA Chief Leon Henderson, Transportation Director Joseph B. Eastman and Petroleum Administrator Ickes.

OPA's report was expected to include detailed steps for tightening up control over gasoline and fuel oil supplies "beyond the coupon stage" — at refineries, bulk plants, distributors and the dealers.

An OPA spokesman said there were considerable shipments of gasoline and oil among distributors over which the government now has no control and also a leakage of so-called "unrationed gasoline" destined for non-highway and other purposes.

Henderson said previously that

BUTTER'S $1.25

Detroit Housewives Pay the Price; OPA Says It's Legal.

DETROIT — (UP) — Butter is scarce in Detroit, but consumers can buy all they want if they're willing to pay up to $1.25 a pound for it.

Housewives wandering from store to store seeking butter received this information today as the office of price administration disclosed the $1.25-a-pound price is "legal."

Farmers at Detroit's eastern and western markets sold butter directly to consumers yesterday at prices ranging from 75 cents to a dollar top. However, the city bureau of markets said housewives have paid as much as $1.25 a pound.

Here's why the price is 'legal: According to the OPA, a farmer may sell his produce, not exceeding $75 worth a month, without heeding any of the government's restrictions or regulations on ceiling prices.

Plaintiff's Case In Heath Divorce Action Near Close

Testimony of witnesses for Grace Heath in her suit for divorce and property settlement against Earl W. Heath, Plymouth, was expected to be completed with the close of today's session in Common Pleas court. The case being heard by Judge C. H. Huston involves major holdings of the Fate-Root-Heath company in Plymouth, as well as much real estate and personal property. Heath is president of the company.

Two sons, aged 20 and 18, and the 19-year-old daughter of the couple testified this morning. Mrs. Heath occupied the stand a great part of yesterday afternoon in support of her allegations of extreme cruelty and gross neglect.

She, the children, and a few friends recounted incidents they said occurred in the family home at Plymouth and at their summer cottage on Lake Erie to substantiate charges that the defendant was an habitual drinker and that his actions on some occasions were degrading to the family's social position.

The daughter told the court

Death Toll 22 as Avalanche Hits Bus

BIG BOULDERS CRUSH COACH AT ALIQUIPPA

Three Escape Pre-Christmas Tragedy: Two Reported Critically Hurt.

'WITHOUT WARNING'

Passenger Tells of Crash as Slide Ripped Vehicle on Narrow Road.

(By Associated Press)

ALIQUIPPA, Pa.—Twenty-two persons perished last night when two boulders, one weighing more than 100 tons, crashed down upon a big Ohio River motor coach bus crowded with homegoing war workers. Only three passengers escaped, two with critical injuries. All the dead were Pennsylvanians.

The pre-Christmas tragedy occurred a mile east of here at 5 10 p. m., as the bus threaded its way around a treacherous "S" curve on a narrow, slippery road. Three other buses were just ahead of it and two were trailing.

The boulders toppled down from a 100-foot high perch with little warning, although the driver of the bus behind said Dympiro (Dan) Karapan 27 piloting the ill-fated machine, swerved to the left as if trying to escape the falling.

This swerve saved four persons in the rear of the bus, although one of these died later in a hospital.

"There was no warning," said Joseph M. Manko, the lone passenger able to go home after the accident. "Just a crash and not so loud, either. I didn't hear a cry, nor a moan. But I guess I was stunned. I was pinned by broken seats on top of me but managed to pull out my legs.

"Men kept calling to me to climb out. They were from the bus behind. I got my legs through a broken window and they pulled me

NO WHITE YULE?

Rain Melts Snow and Forecast Isn't Too Encouraging.

Mansfield likely will not have a White Christmas, other than in song, but five street department crews are striving to remove snow slush and muck from city streets to insure a safer and more sightly exterior aspect for the holiday.

Ohio's weather forecast is "warmer" for the remainder of today but somewhat colder tonight. There is no promise of more snow.

Thawing temperatures yesterday and last night removed much of last week's snowfall but street department employes today were continuing their battle against ice at hazardous traffic points.

Charles H. Hebel, reporting five members of his crew ill from exposure, said today that 65 tons of salt (at $9 a ton) and two carloads of screened cinders have been spread on danger spots in the last week.

Crews were kept busy yesterday and today opening gutters and catch basins to carry off the melting snow and ice.

BASKETS GO TO 305 FAMILIES

Salvation Army To Pack 200 Tonight, Other Groups To Care For 105 More.

Christmas baskets for Mansfield's needy will be distributed Thursday to 305 families through the Give-a-Christmas program to which scores of individuals and organizations contributed.

Two hundred baskets will be packed tonight at the Salvation Army and the remaining 105 baskets will be distributed directly by groups adopting families through the organization's clearing house program.

Of the 200 baskets to be packed by the Salvation Army, 125 were financed by a check for $625 presented by the Dominion Electrical Manufacturing company.

Another 68 baskets in addition to those supplied by the Give-a-Christmas program will be provided by the Volunteers of America. The latter organization also received a cash gift of $150 from the Dominion company to supply 25 baskets.

Other gifts received today by the Give-a-Christmas program included 100 pounds of candy from labor and management at the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company. Local 17 helped to furnish the candy also 72 novelty gifts for the baskets.

Distribution will be made from the Salvation Army citadel all day Thursday and deliveries will be made to the aged and those having no means of transporting their baskets.

Special ceremonies will mark the distribution of baskets at the Volunteres of America headquarters Thursday at 9 30 a. m.

Christmas Mail Pace Drops Off By Almost Half

Business dropped off sharply at the Mansfield postoffice today after the greatest Christmas mailing rush in the history of the department that sent first class mail cancellations for the first 22 days of December alone up to 19,500 above last year.

The peak was reached Monday when 113,000 pieces of first class mail passed through the cancelling machine. Yesterday's cancellations dropped to 67 700 and cancellations today will likely not even closely approximate that figure, Postmaster Herman E. Homberger said.

First class mail cancellations from Dec. 1, to Dec. 22, this year totalled 1,011,500. Last year they amounted to 992,000.

Postal windows will remain open today until 7 p. m. to accomodate

GET MORE OIL

Richland Users Permitted To Cash Coupon No. 3.

Mansfielders who heat their homes with oil need not shiver through Christmas and New Year, under orders received by the county ration board today making Coupon No 3, which was to become valid Jan. 6 good for obtaining fuel oil as of Dec. 23 – today.

Bombarded by reports that Mansfield and Richland county users of heating and cooking oil had exhausted their ration for the December period, the local ration board joined others throughout the nation in appealing to the OPA in Washington for relief.

A telegram from the OPA to Charles Beelman, ration board chairman today authorized use of No. 3 coupon as of today, instead of Jan 6 making an additional two weeks' supply of fuel oil available immediately.

STEEL STRIKERS HEED WLB PLEA

Republic Steel Resumes Work as 1,000 Unionists Go Back to Jobs.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Full operations were restored today at Republic Steel Corporation's huge strip mill after 1,000 CIO unionists yielded to a war labor board plea for termination of a work stoppage that halted ship plate production more than a day.

The men returned to work under a WLB promise that a dispute involving work schedules would be taken up at a conference next Monday at Washington.

Lewis M. Gill, regional WLB director who obtained an agreement from unionists on the resumption of work last night, said no attempt was made then to decide the merits of the controversy, which shut down the strip mill at 3 p. m. Monday.

Charles M White, Republic vice president, described the work stoppage as a "wholly unwarranted strike" in informing federal officials that every day's shutdown at the strip mill resulted in a tremendous loss in ship steel. He declared the workers refused to continue existing work schedules or to accept a new schedule complying with presidential orders on premium pay.

President Edward P Stack of Local 2265, CIO United Steel Workers of America, asserted the men were locked out under a new work schedule which violated the president's order on premium rates for the seventh day of a work week.

The stoppage violated a no-strike pledge in a contract between the company and union, Republic said in seeking action in Washington. The dispute was certified late yesterday to the WLB.

County's Response Helps Put Victory Fund Area Over Top

Smashing through to a sensational victory in the nation's greatest money-raising campaign — the Victory fund drive for $9,000,000 — 26 counties in northern Ohio and two in Pennsylvania, comprising Area 1, of which Richland county is a part, today went over the top by $30,000,000.

Surpassing the quota of $277,527,000 the area raised $307,986,756 in the campaign that began Dec. 1, and exceeded its goal two weeks before the drive was scheduled to close.

Richland county's own goal in the area was exceeded by $12,000 last week when reports showed bond sales of $4,462,000 against a quota of $4,450,000. The next report is not due until Thursday, H. G. Brunner, Richland county chairman of the Victory fund drive, said today.

The area's success in topping its goal by such a high figure was cited today as "an illustrious example of what American citizens can do to help their government deal a tremendous blow to the Axis," by M. J. Fleming, president

Report Nazis Bomb Own Men During Retreat

Surprise Air Blow Rips Key Port on Vital Strait Of Malacca.

(By International News Service)

LONDON — Carrier-based British aircraft, striking a surprise blow against the Japanese in the Netherlands East Indies, have heavily bombed military installations at Sabang, island port at the northern tip of Sumatra, the admiralty disclosed today.

Large explosions were followed by widespread conflagrations after the British naval forces unleashed the attack Sunday, the official announcement said.

Carried out by naval forces operating in the Bay of Bengal, the raid marked the first return by the British to the Dutch East Indies since the Japanese overran the oil-rich islands last March.

Sabang, adjacent to Malaya, stands as a guard overlooking the Strait of Malacca, and is situated some 600 miles south of Rangoon, Burma.

It was not immediately clear whether the assault to destroy Sabang as a base was carried out as a complementary action to the New British land drive from India southward through Burma, but such an attack likely would check any Jap plans

Soviets 150 Miles From Kharkov In Smash Toward Prize Region.

(By United Press)

MOSCOW—The Red army today broke into the Ukraine, the rich agricultural province that lured Adolf Hitler into taking his Russian gamble, and the Germans were retreating in such haste that the luftwaffe was reported to be bombing its own ground troops in an attempt to halt the rout.

The Soviet winter offensive had been carried to a point less than 150 miles east of Kharkov, and the Red army was firmly astride the important Rostov-Moscow railroad at several points.

Two powerful Russian armies were on the offensive. One was driving westward toward Kharkov, while the other, moving southward, had penetrated to an area about 120 miles north or Rostov, gateway to the Caucasus.

Front dispatches from the middle Don sector reported that the Germans, freezing in the grip of the Russian winter, were becoming disorganized and discouraged. The newspaper Pravda said the German air force had adopted the technique of bombing retreating

SLASH: Allies Rip Rommel's Supply Line, Bagging 10 Ships

BULLETIN

LONDON—(AP)—Large reinforcements, war supplies and materials have been landed at Malta "without major interference from the enemy," the admiralty announced today.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—Two Axis warships and eight merchant vessels were reported today as sunk or damaged along the Mediterranean supply routes to the remaining German-Italian strongholds in North Africa.

Allied planes and British submarines and light surface ships cooperated to slash at the arteries of reinforcement for Marshal Erwin Rommel and Gen. Walther Nehring while British, French and American ground troops made ready for final tightening of the Libyan-Tunisian vise.

Communiques from the London admiralty and British Middle East headquarters in Cairo listed these Axis surface craft as victims of the war of attrition in the Mediterranean:

One Axis supply ship sunk, one believed sunk and two more supply ships and an escorting destroyer torpedoed by submarines.

One small enemy supply vessel sunk in the Gulf of Gabes (off the Tunisian coast) by light naval forces.

One enemy merchant vessel set afire and a small escort ship hit directly off Sicily and two hits scored on enemy vessels in the main basin at Tunis by Allied planes Monday night.

The Italian communique broadcast from Rome said German planes severely damaged five large merchant ships and a torpedo boat in attacks on British and American convoys in Algerian waters.

German and Italian detachments "have gained ground after lively local encounters" in Tunisia, repulsed Allied counter-attacks upon mountain defenses and cap-

NARRATIVE: Defenders' Chief Tells How Stalingrad Held Out

Henry Shapiro, only American correspondent who visited the Stalingrad front, today gives the full story of the defense of Stalingrad as told by the commander in chief of the garrison.

By HENRY SHAPIRO
(UP Staff Correspondent)
Copyright 1942, by United Press

WITH THE RED ARMY ON THE STALINGRAD FRONT — (Delayed) — (UP) — Four months ago Lieut. Gen. Vassili Ivanovich Chuikov of the Red army stood on a hill and looked at what appeared to be a flaming volcano 30 miles away—the burning city of Stalingrad.

He had received orders to take command and defend the city with the life of every man in it.

The Russian troops were outnumbered, outgunned, blasted day and night by thousands of German planes. They were tiring and many were discouraged.

Chuikov and his Red army made their stand, week after week. They stood up under an almost unbelievable attack. They broke it, and today they are driving the Germans before them house by house in the city.

Chuikov told me the story in a special interview given over the Red army military telegraph from his headquarters in the city to this front headquarters base in the Don river bend.

"There were many whining pessimists in the army. I threw these panicy people out of the

DINA CASHMAN + + +

By
Kathleen Norris

(Copyright, 1942.)

CHAPTER XVIII

"I understand," Dina had to lear her throat to make herself udible. "I understand, of course," he added, "that it would spoil ll her plans for him. But I'm urprised—I'm surprised at Vere," he finished in a low tone, as if he spoke to her own thoughts.

"They've talked Vere into this, r rather they've blustered him nto thinking as they do," the man aid. "They've told him that what ou fear very probably isn't true nd that all boys get into scrapes ike this."

A red-hot wind seemed to be ouching Dina's naked skin. She as breathing a little hard, her yes fixed, her mouth firmly shut.

"Now Caroline," said Rogers, is right to this extent. There is man ready to marry you. You ere here the other night and layed the part of hostess," the an went on, his eyes narrowed, is gaze fixed on her face. "I put ou at the head of my table, and liked your looks there. Thinkng it over afterward, I said to Irs. Bucket, who, by the way, is ne of my best friends, that I saw o reason why you shouldn't stay ere. There's plenty of room—e aren't using half the rooms in is house—and I said, 'She can ait for her child and make her lans for what she wants to do fterward.'

"Mrs. Bucket agreed that it ould be perfectly possible, but on ne condition—"

"But I've just been talking to er," Dina broke in impulsively, and while I'm more grateful an I can say to you for thinking it, don't you see—since it was ere—"

"But wait a minute," he interpted in his turn. "You haven't eard Mrs. Bucket's condition. Ir. Holland,' she said, 'ask her to arry you.' I thought she was king, of course. I'm more than ice your age; I've been a widver for five years. To you I em a fat old man."

Dina had shrunk in her chair; r face was scarlet.

"I thought about it," the man id. "I thought what a young gure would mean in this house someone at the table with me, meone reporting on the garden the news or the trouble in the tchen. It was a completely new ea to me, but it grew on me. grew on me until I came to see at I would like the arrangeent very much."

"Oh, you are very kind," Dina id breathlessly, "but I couldn't you."

"You seem to feel," he observed ruffled, "very much as I felt. was flabbergasted for a whole y! Two days! I've been in love twenty years with one woman. u met her the other night—ine. I'll be in love with her—or hate with her"—the man interpted himself to change the rase bitterly—"as long as I live. e got her under my skin. What e says, what she does is suemely, maddeningly important me; I can't help it. I despise her, and she is the only person in the world that matters.

"She hates you already. And he—that handsome artist nonentity she married—helped it along the other night. I could have blessed him for it! After you left he began it. Who were you? He was anxious to paint you.

"I'd have him paint you!" Rogers added with a chuckle. His face flushed with bitterness. "What do you think?" he asked.

"I couldn't let you marry me. It's not your fault! It's not your responsibility!" Dina said slowly

"Don't imagine," Rogers began again, "that your life here would be particularly pleasant. I'm not a pleasant person. I'm 21 years older than you are. This is a gloomy house, with a tragedy of a sick woman's life, of lost children. But you'd be lonely. You'd be cheated. You'd be condemned to a life with a cranky, unhappy, frustrated old man."

"I'd have my child," Dina said steadily.

"Yes, that's another point. That's the point I'm counting on to persuade you. The child will be a Holland after all. He'll have his rightful name and his chance. For a good many years we hoped there'd be Holland children in the house." Rogers went on, his eyes absent.

"This child of yours would be born in wedlock, legally mine. Let Caroline Holland say what she would, she couldn't deny him that right."

"She'd—she'd tell everyone!" Dina stammered, the room dizzily going around her.

"Tell everyone that Vere wouldn't play the man, that the Holland money—the money I'm to leave someday—is not going to him but to his son, my son whom he'll never have the right to claim?" Rogers countered.

"No," the girl slowly admitted. "She'd never do that; she couldn't do that." And then, in sudden tears: "Mr. Holland, then you don't think Vere will come back—Vere will never know how much I need him!"

He made no answer. But as her brimming eyes were raised to his she saw in the half-smile, half-frown on his face no hope for her.

There was time for no more. The library door was quietly opened by Mrs. Bucket, who came to her employer's side.

"Mrs. Holland," she said.

"Oh. Ask her to come in," Rogers replied quickly.

Dina had not the time for more than a sensation of terror, a wild impulse to escape somehow, to get away at all costs, when a woman came into the library, gave her one careless, scornful glance in passing, and took possession of a chair between her own chair and that of Rogers Holland.

"Come in, come in, Caroline," Rogers, rising lazily, amiably. "That's it. Sit down."

"I had your letter this morning," the woman said abruptly.

"I thought we could talk things over. Caroline, Miss Cashman," Rogers said. "Geraldine, this is Mrs. Holland."

"Orkman said it was a threatening letter."

"Oh, you saw Orkman?"

"I telephoned him and read it to him." Except for the slightest inclination of her head and a cold stare, she had paid no attention whatsoever to Dina.

"And he thought it was threatening," Rogers murmured.

"He said I was under no obligation at all in the matter, that it was entirely optional with me, coming here at all."

"Surely you knew that, Caroline?"

"Certainly I knew it!" said Caroline Holland impatiently.

"Still, I don't quite see where the threats come in," Rogers mused.

"He said, 'He isn't threatening you, is he?' He used that expression.

"Oh, I see. But you came anyway."

They hated each other—these two. Dina lost consciousness of the chill of terror that had shaken her in a sort of terrible fascination.

"I came," said Mrs. Holland, "because I want to be done with this business once and for all. It is a brazen attempt to involve my son in something of which he is entirely innocent. He hardly knows this girl. You must excuse me," said the hard voice as its owner turned to Dina, "but you know yourself that that is the truth!"

A hard voice and a hard woman. Beautifully groomed, seeming, as far as the copper-dyed hair and the enameled face were concerned, to be sculptured rather than human.

Beautiful, yes, she was really beautiful, Dina thought, with the very essence of haughty, confident, and insolent beauty. The girl could not find the words for it—but she knew what it was and what she might expect from Vere's mother.

"My son," Caroline Holland said, "was simply stupefied with amazement when he understood what all this was about. He is—you know how young he is, Rogers; you know how completely unfitted he is to deal with a situation like this!"

"Yet the situation has to be dealt with, doesn't it, Caroline?" Rogers said blandly.

"A boy that age," she said, "faced with a thing like this! He aged. He aged overnight. I never saw anything like it. 'I don't know what to do!' he kept saying."

"He didn't come west, did he?"

"He couldn't." She hesitated, spoke irresolutely. "We've had trouble enough," she continued; "keeping him from being dropped from college, without running any risk of his asking for a leave. Not to come home to this sort of outrageous accusation and scandal!"

"I think we ought to think of Geraldine as well as of Vere, Caroline," the man said. His pudgy hand moved to the papers on his desk.

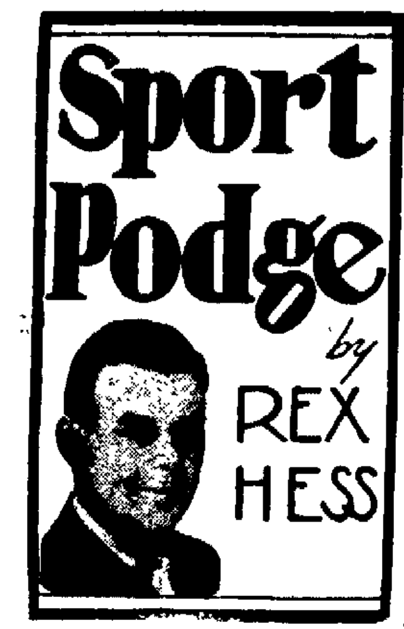
Tygers Edge Collinwood 38-37 In Overtime Cage Battle



Sport Podge by REX HESS

Whether there will be an amateur boxing tournament here on or about Jan. 7 as a qualifier for the Cleveland Golden Gloves tourney will depend entirely on the boxers themselves, according to Mike Wentz, physical director of Friendly House.

"We're ready to put on the tournament right here at Friendly House," says Mike, "if enough boxers from our district can be found to make up a tournament list."

Meanwhile Friendly House is going ahead with plans for a tournament, while waiting the reaction of leather slingers over the district which includes Richland, Ashland and Crawford counties.

The tournament, of course, will be under A. A. U. rules. Any boy over 16 years of age, and of amateur standing, who has lived in Ashland, Crawford or Richland counties for the past four months is eligible.

The tourney is being set up in both novice and open divisions. The novice class includes boys who have appeared in less than three fights. All others are classed in the open division

Winners in each weight class in both open and novice divisions will be taken to Cleveland with all expenses paid.

The Cleveland tourney is scheduled for Jan. 28-29 and Feb. 2 and 5. And as usual winners of the Cleveland mitting will fight in the Chicago Tribune tournament and in the national championships at Boston.

Application blanks may be obtained at the Friendly House Settlement, 280 North Main street, Mansfield, and registrations for the district tournament must be filed at Friendly House on or before Jan. 2.

Now we'll see whether there are any fighters left in the district, or whether they are all doing their fighting in the armed forces.

The boys in this office wouldn't believe it yesterday when I told them I had had a telephone call from Whisler's mother.

"We never saw a telephone in that picture," they declared.

But this was a different Whisler family, although the son is something of an artist at that—an artist at pounding an opposing line and sprinting through an open field.

It was Mrs. Whisler of Willard calling me, the mother of Ohio State's star freshman fullback, wanting to know how she could locate Bill Doolittle and Dave Templeton, Mansfield's Ohio State freshman quarterbacks.

Christoforidis Wins Tourney Bout

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Matchmaker Larry Atkins' tournament to crown a light heavyweight "duration champ" was narrowed to three competitors today.

Anton Christoforidis, spotting his adversary six pounds at 166, won a 10-round decision over dusky Nate Bolden from Chicago before a crowd of 5,534 fans who paid $12,816.50 to watch the tame tourney inaugural at the arena last night.

The crowd pleaser on last night's card was the eight round semi-final between Lulu Costantino, highly-regarded New York featherweight and Joey Pirrone, Cleveland lightweight. Costantino took the decision

Ray Mack of Cleveland took part in five double plays to tie the single game mark for second sackers. Joe Gordon of the Yankees, the league's most valuable player, trailed Mack with .966 to finish fifth.

Leading third baseman for the second straight year was Ken Keltner of Cleveland. He registered 945 for 151 games, a drop of 26 points from the 1941 total in 149 games Harlond Clift of St. Louis was runner-up with .941 in 141 games

Lou Boudreau, manager of the Indians, brought additional honors to his club by leading the shortstops with 965 in 146 games He set the pace in 1941, also, with .966 in 147 contests. Phil Rizzuto of the Yankees came three points behind with a '42 average of .962 for 144 games. Rizzuto took part in the most double plays with 114 compared to 107 for Boudreau.

Walter Judnich of the Browns, Roy Weatherly of the Indians and Ted Williams of the Red Sox led the outfielders Judnich committed only three errors while handling 337 chances in 122 games but his performance was equalled by Weatherly who took care of 334 chances Williams made only four muffs in 332 chances for 988.

Strange Ailment Kills Borican

BRIDGETON, N. J.—(AP)—John Borican, one of America's great natural athletes, died last night.

The powerful body which carried him to numerous world track records and national championships had wasted away to a mere 110 pounds through an ailment which his family said specialists were unable to diagnose. He became ill three months ago."

* * *

"They don't seem to know what's the matter with me, or maybe they don't want to tell me," Borican said recently at his apartment-studio in New York. "You wouldn't know me anymore."

Mystery Seen In Cagle Death

Pneumonia, Fractured Skull Kills Gridder.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Death, with a background of mystery, came today to one of the greatest football players of all time—Christian Keener (Red) Cagle, whose brilliant ball-carrying for Army twice brought him All-American glory.

The sandy haired, 37-year-old athlete, unanimous choice for All-American halfback in 1928 and 1929, died in a Queens hospital of pneumonia and a skull fracture.

Cagle, who carried his talents to the professional gridiron and once was part owner of the Brooklyn Dodgers' professional eleven, was found semi-conscious Saturday night in the lobby of a Queens apartment house where he lived with his wife.

Police said they had not yet determined how Cagle received the head injury.

Police said the house superintendent, who with Mrs. Cagle brought the athlete to the hospital, told them Cagle had muttered "some thing about being kicked in the head."

A native of Merryville, La, Cagle played for Southwestern before going to the U. S. military academy.

Cagle recently employed by an insurance company, resigned from West Point, by official request, in 1930, when his marriage to Marion Munford Haile, of Gretna, La., became known. The Cagles had two children.

Cardinals Break Up Yanks Through World Series Upset

NEW YORK — (AP) — This was the year a speedy, sharp-hitting gang of St Louis Cardinals did the job of breaking up the Yankees.

The New Yorkers were, as usual, king of the walk in their own league but in the world series, the Cardinals turned loose such a fast, crippling attack that the Yankees at the finish, beaten four games to one, were all but stumbling around like dazed sandlotters.

This triumph came almost as an anti-climax to the Cardinals' great stretch drive to slice away a 10-game Brooklyn lead and win the National league pennant in a stirring duel that lasted right down to the last day. Far behind the Brooklyn Dodgers, who in early August appeared to have the flag all but wrapped up, Billy Southworth's swift youngsters won 47 out of their last 57 games to verhaul the Flatbush Fusileers and grab the bunting in an almost photo finish.

Trailing by two games as they came into Brooklyn, Sept. 10, the Cards walloped the Dodgers twice to gain a tie and then took the lead next day, and were never headed, although the aroused Brooklyns put up a stubborn last-ditch battle to the end.

The Yanks, who made a runaway of their loop race, and clinched their sixth pennant in seven years on Sept. 14, were series' favorites and it looked like another Yankee sweep in the first game as Red Ruffing set a new series' record by holding St. Louis hitless for seven and two-thirds innings However, there should have been a sign of what was to come in the Cardinals' last inning uprising that drove Old Red from the mound before New York won 7-4.

From there on out, it was all St. Louis, with the Cardinals dazzling the Yankees with their speed to win four straight games. Rookie Johnny Beazley outpitched the Yankee ace, Tiny Bonham, to win the second game on Rookie Stan Musial's late single Lefty Ernie White shut out the New Yorkers 2-0 in the third game, the Cards put on a late batting splurge to take the next 9-6 and Beazley came back to win his second game in the finale, which was decided by a ninth-inning home run by another rookie, Third Baseman Whitey Kurowski

Marvelous catches by Terry Moore, great throws by Moore and Country Slaughter, blinding speed by the base runners, and timely hitting, combined to produce jittery performances by the usually calm and confident Yanks, such as Bill Dickey's wild throw over second base and the trapping of Joe Gordon off second in the last game. Gordon, top Yankee batter, couldn't buy a hit until late in the series.

Ted Williams was the standout batter of the majors, winning the American league hitting triple and pacing the Boston Red Sox into second place, ahead of the surprisingly strong St Louis Browns. He won the batting crown with a .356 average, knocked 36 homers and batted in 137 runs. However, the unpredictable, temperamental beanpole got into trouble—he was benched for loafing in July and fined $250. Boston had another young star in Rookie Shortstop Johnny Pesky, who led the majors in hits, 205.

Bulky Ernie Lombardi of the Braves won the senior circuit batting championship with a .331 average while Mel Ott, who did a fine job of managing the Giants into third place, led in homers with 30 and Johnny Mize of the Giants knocked in 110 runs Bonham of the Yankees won 21 games as did Beazley while Mort Cooper of the Cards, who couldn't win either of his series' starts, topped the National pitchers with 22 triumphs.

Cooper and Gordon won the most valuable player awards.

Home runs by Lou Boudreau, serving his first year as Cleveland manager, and Rudy York of Detroit gave the Americans a 3-1 triumph in the All-Star game and the Americans then shut out a service team managed by Mickey Cochrane 5-0. Rogers Hornsby was named to the Hall of Fame.

With benefit games during the season and a large slice of world series proceeds, baseball contributed nearly a million dollars to war relief funds. Because of the war-time dimouts in the East, night games were replaced by twilight contests. An epidemic of bean ball pitches caused the National league to threaten a $200 fine for managers for every occurrence. Military calls and transportation problems forced 15 of the 41 minor leagues to fold up. Baseball attendance was off some eight per cent.

General Manager Larry MacPhail of Brooklyn resigned to enter the army and was replaced by Branch Rickey from the Cardinals. Detroit released Manager Del Baker and hired Steve O'Neill, Bucky Harris of Washington resigned and was replaced by Ossie Bluege. Bill Terry quit as farm manager of the Giants

CONNIE MACK

Connie Mack, owner and manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, celebrates his 80th birthday giving the "V" for victory sign and predicting that 1943 will be baseball's toughest year. Asked about the American league race for '43, the dean replied that the St. Louis Browns "looked very good."

Stage Uphill Fight For Second Victory

Les Myers Scores Bucket Which Decides Rough Tilt For Mansfield

NO WILD WEST movie thriller ever had a thing on that Mansfield-Cleveland Collinwood high school basketball battle on the Tyger court last night. Speed, action, suspense, and plenty of rough stuff, this bucketball brawl had 'em all, and in the end the hero triumphed and the villain went down to defeat.

Score: Mansfield 38, Collinwood 37. With one overtime period.

The holiday crowd was the smallest to see a Mansfield team play at home in recent years, but it made up in noise volume what it lacked in multitude, and it was a Merry Christmas gift the battling Tygers handed them for their support.

Battling Tygers? They were all of that last night, and they had to be. Caught off guard by the wild brand of rough basketball played by the visitors, the Tygers got behind early in the ball game, and it was a long, uphill pull before they finally found themselves in the driver's seat at 35-34 with only a minute and four second of the fourth quarter remaining.

What if Collinwood did tie it up at 35 to 35 and send the game into overtime play? The Tygers had the momentum to carry them through in the extra stanza as they chalked up their second straight victory. For Collinwood it was the third defeat against one win.

Heroes? They all had to be heroes in that kind of a ball game. And when a game's decided by a single point, one point is as good as another on the score sheet. But while Andy Lamoreux and Bob "Peanuts" Baker led the Tyger scoring with 10 points each, it was really Les Myers who saved the day for the Tygers.

Given a chance to tie the score at 34-34, Les missed the free shot but followed it in for a bucket and the Tygers were ahead with only that minute and four seconds to go. Palumbo tied it up with 35 seconds remaining, with a free toss, and then with only 20 seconds left to play Andy Lamoreux saw a pair of free shots roll off the rim and the game go into overtime.

Lamoreux made his next free shot and Mansfield was ahead 36-35 with a minute and 14 seconds of the overtime left to play. Apparently expecting Mansfield to attempt to freeze the ball, the Collinwood defense came charging out, and Les Myers sneaked under the hoop for a sucker shot, and the deciding points of the ball game.

There were only 47 seconds left to go then, but Collinwood was still in there scrapping. Vaiksner, who led the Railroaders with 15 points, missed a pair of free shots, but Will followed up the second one for a bucket and the visitors trailed by only one point.

And there was plenty of wild action in those closing seconds, broken up when Robertson was fouled and offered a free shot. Mansfield took the ball out of bounds instead, and held it for the remaining five seconds.

Mansfield got away to a 3-0 lead at the start, but Collinwood came back to tie it up at 4-4 and go ahead 7-4 and the Railroaders held the lead from then until early in the final period when Mansfield tied it up at 28-28 and later at 33-33. But Mansfield was never ahead from those opening minutes until the last minute of the fourth period.

Collinwood held an 11-9 margin at the quarter, and 21-15 at the half, but Mansfield trimmed it down to 23-26 at the third quarter.

There were 45 fouls called during the rough imbroglio, good for 53 free tosses at the hoop. Mansfield made good on 12 out of 29 free shots and Collinwood on 11 out of 24.

The preliminary tilt saw Madison's fast stepping Rams, paced by Captain Billy Wynn and Harold Hammer, trouncing the Tyger sophomores 32-10.

Methodists Finally Lose

St. John's Cagers Score 40-37 Victory.

Central Methodist's "Old Men" finaly bowed to youth, speed and stamina in the Y. M. C. A. Senior church league cage wars at the Y gym last night, losing to St. John's 30-47.

Saints took a 12-8 lead in the first period, and outscored the Methodists in each of the four stanzas, racking up a 20-11 margin for the final session.

Lutherans got away to a 7-5 quarter lead and 15-7 half-time margin over St. Luke's, and then barely lasted to a 28-25 victory as a Saint rally fell short.

Baptists forfeited to St. Matthew's, while the Episcopal-Congregational game was postponed by agreement until Dec. 31 at 3.30 p. m.

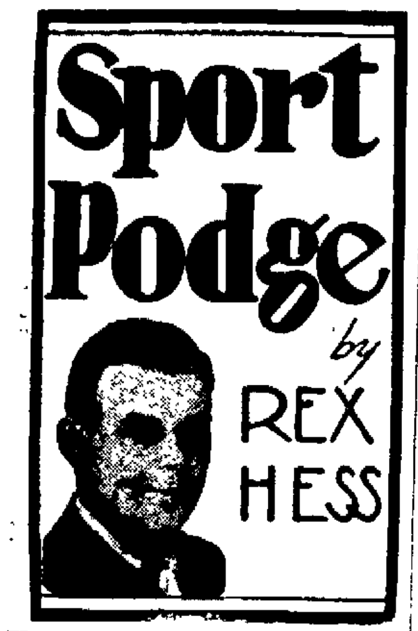
Tygers Edge Collinwood 38-37 In Overtime Cage Battle



Whether there will be an amateur boxing tournament here on or about Jan. 7 as a qualifier for the Cleveland Golden Gloves tourney will depend entirely on the boxers themselves, according to Mike Wentz, physical director of Friendly House.

"We're ready to put on the tournament right here at Friendly House," says Mike, "if enough boxers from our district can be found to make up a tournament list."

Meanwhile Friendly House is going ahead with plans for a tournament, while waiting the reaction of leather slingers over the district which includes Richland, Ashland and Crawford counties.

The tournament, of course, will be under A. A. U. rules. Any boy over 16 years of age, and of amateur standing, who has lived in Ashland, Crawford or Richland counties for the past four months is eligible.

The tourney is being set up in both novice and open divisions. The novice class includes boys who have appeared in less than three fights. All others are classed in the open division.

Winners in each weight class in both open and novice divisions will be taken to Cleveland with all expenses paid.

The Cleveland tourney is scheduled for Jan. 28-29 and Feb. 2 and 5. And as usual winners of the Cleveland mitting will fight in the Chicago Tribune tournament and in the national championships at Boston.

Application blanks may be obtained at the Friendly House Settlement, 280 North Main street, Mansfield, and registrations for the district tournament must be filed at Friendly House on or before Jan. 2.

Now we'll see whether there are any fighters left in the district, or whether they are all doing their fighting in the armed forces.

The boys in this office wouldn't believe it yesterday when I told them I had had a telephone call from Whisler's mother.

"We never saw a telephone in that picture," they declared.

But this was a different Whisler family, although the son is something of an artist at that—an artist at pounding an opposing line and sprinting through an open field.

It was Mrs. Whisler of Willard calling, ie. the mother of Ohio State's star freshman fullback, wanting to know how she could locate Bill Doolittle and Dave Templeton, Mansfield's Ohio State freshman quarterbacks.

Christoforidis Wins Tourney Bout

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Matchmaker Larry Atkins' tournament to crown a light heavyweight "duration champ" was narrowed to three competitors today.

Anton Christoforidis, spotting his adversary six pounds at 166, won a 10-round decision over dusky Nate Bolden from Chicago before a crowd of 5,534 fans who paid $12,816.50 to watch the tame tourney inaugural at the arena last night.

The crowd pleaser on last night's card was the eight round semi final between Lulu Costantino, highly-regarded New York featherweight, and Joey Pirrone, Cleveland lightweight. Costantino took the decision

Yankees Lead In Fielding

But Indians Cop Three Individual Titles.

By PAUL SCHEFFELS

NEW YORK—(UP)—The champion New York Yankees won team fielding honors in the American league in 1942 but individual honors went to the Boston Red Sox and Cleveland Indians, official averages showed today.

Only two percentage points separated the first three clubs in the team competition with the Yankees compiling a mark of .976 in 154 games while committing only 142 errors. Cleveland and Boston tied for second with .974. The Indians made 163 misplays to the Red Sox' 157 but handled 6,185 chances to Boston's 6,006.

The Red Sox and Indians dominated the all-star individual defensive lineup, however, Boston placing six men among the top players while the Indians landed five. The Yankees, St. Louis and Chicago each had one.

Double plays fell off last season from 1,242 in 1941 to 1,207 and for the second time in the junior circuit's history there were no triple plays. Fielding for the league droped just one point to .971 in '42.

Best first baseman was Rookie Les Fleming of Cleveland with a percentage of .993 for 156 games, just one point above Tony Lupien's mark in 121 games for the Red Sox. Fleming participated in five double plays in a single game to equal the league standard. Rudy York broke the league mark for assists for first basemen with 146, surpassing by three the record hung up in 1914 by Chick Gandil with Washington.

The Red Sox' Bobby Doerr paced the second sackers with .975 for 142 games, a mark two points over that of Don Gutteridge of the Browns for 145 games. Ray Mack of Cleveland took part in five double plays to tie the single game mark for second sackers. Joe Gordon of the Yankees, the league's most valuable player, trailed Mack with .966 to finish fifth.

Leading third baseman for the second straight year was Ken Keltner of Cleveland. He registered .945 for 151 games, a drop of 26 points from the 1941 total in 149 games. Harlond Clift of St. Louis was runner-up with .941 in 141 games

Lou Boudreau, manager of the Indians, brought additional honors to his club by leading the shortstops with .965 in 146 games. He set the pace in 1941, also, with .966 in 147 contests. Phil Rizzuto of the Yankees came three points behind with a '42 average of .962 for 144 games. Rizzuto took part in the most double plays with 114 compared to 107 for Boudreau.

Walter Judnich of the Browns, Roy Weatherly of the Indians and Ted Williams of the Red Sox led the outfielders. Judnich committed only three errors while handling 337 chances in 122 games but his performance was equalled by Weatherly who took care of 331 chances. Williams made only four muffs in 332 chances for .988.

No catcher worked in 100 games last season. The three leaders were Buddy Rosar of the Yankees with .996 for 58 games, Otto Denning of Cleveland with .992 for 78 and Johnny Peacockk of the Red Sox with .988 for 82. In '41, five catchers caught in 100 or more games.

* * *

Twenty-two perfect performances were included among the pitchers who worked in 10 games or more. Joe Dobson of the Red Sox led the group with 59 chances followed by teammate Charlie Wagner who handled 55. Most effective, however, was Tex Hughson, also of Boston, who handled 76 chances with one error for a .987 mark

Strange Ailment Kills Borican

BRIDGETON, N. J.—(AP)—John Borican, one of America's great natural athletes, died last night.

The powerful body which carried him to numerous world track records and national championships had wasted away to a mere 110 pounds through an ailment which his family said specialists were unable to diagnose. He became ill three months ago."

* * *

"They don't seem to know what's the matter with me, or maybe they don't want to tell me," Borican said recently at his apartment-studio in New York. "You wouldn't know me anymore."

Mystery Seen In Cagle Death

Pneumonia, Fractured Skull Kills Gridder.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Death, with a background of mystery, came today to one of the greatest football players of all time—Christian Keener (Red) Cagle, whose brilliant ball-carrying for Army twice brought him All-American glory.

The sandy-haired, 37-year-old athlete, unanimous choice for All-American halfback in 1928 and 1929, died in a Queens hospital of pneumonia and a skull fracture.

Cagle, who carried his talents to the professional gridiron and once was part owner of the Brooklyn Dodgers' professional eleven, was found semi-conscious Saturday night in the lobby of a Queens apartment house where he lived with his wife.

Police said they had not yet determined how Cagle received the head injury.

Police said the house superintendent, who with Mrs. Cagle brought the athlete to the hospital, told them Cagle had muttered "some thing about being kicked in the head."

A native of Merryville, La., Cagle played for Southwestern before going to the U. S. military academy.

Cagle recently employed by an insurance company, resigned from West Point, by official request, in 1930, when his marriage to Marion Munford Haile, of Gretna, La., became known. The Cagles had two children.

Cardinals Break Up Yanks Through World Series Upset

NEW YORK — (AP) — This was the year a speedy, sharp-hitting gang of St. Louis Cardinals did the job of breaking up the Yankees.

The New Yorkers were, as usual, king of the walk in their own league but in the world series, the Cardinals turned loose such a fast, crippling attack that the Yankees, at the finish, beaten four games to one, were all but stumbling around like dazed sandlotters.

This triumph came almost as an anti-climax to the Cardinals' great stretch drive to slice away a 10-game Brooklyn lead and win the National league pennant in a stirring duel that lasted right down to the last day. Far behind the Brooklyn Dodgers, who in early August appeared to have the flag all but wrapped up, Billy Southworth's swift youngsters won 47 out of their last 57 games to verhaul the Flatbush Fusileers and grab the bunting in an almost photo finish.

Trailing by two games as they came into Brooklyn, Sept. 10, the Cards walloped the Dodgers twice to gain a tie and then took the lead next day, and were never headed, although the aroused Brooklyns put up a stubborn last-ditch battle to the end.

The Yanks, who made a runaway of their loop race, and clinched their sixth pennant in seven years on Sept. 14, were series' favorites and it looked like another Yankee sweep in the first game as Red Ruffing set a new series' record by holding St. Louis hitless for seven and two-thirds innings. However, there should have been a sign of what was to come in the Cardinals' last inning uprising that drove Old Red from the mound before New York won 7-4

From there on out, it was all St. Louis, with the Cardinals dazzling the Yankees with their speed to win four straight games. Rookie Johnny Beazley outpitched the Yankee ace, Tiny Bonham, to win the second game on Rookie Stan Musial's late single. Lefty Ernie White shut out the New Yorkers 2-0 in the third game, the Cards put on a late batting splurge to take the next 9-6 and Beazley came back to win his second game in the finale, which was decided by a ninth-inning home run by another rookie, Third Baseman Whitey Kurowski.

Marvelous catches by Terry Moore, great throws by Moore and Country Slaughter, blinding speed by the base runners, and timely hitting, combined to produce jittery performances by the usually calm and confident Yanks, such as Bill Dickey's wild throw over second base and the trapping of Joe Gordon off second in the last game. Gordon, top Yankee batter, couldn't buy a hit until late in the series.

Ted Williams was the standout batter of the majors, winning the American league hitting triple and pacing the Boston Red Sox into second place, ahead of the surprisingly strong St. Louis Browns. He won the batting crown with a .356 average, knocked 36 homers and batted in 137 runs. However, the unpredictable, temperamental beanpole got into trouble—he was benched for loafing in July and fined $250. Boston had another young star in Rookie Shortstop Johnny Pesky, who led the majors in hits, 205.

Bulky Ernie Lombardi of the Braves won the senior circuit batting championship with a .331 average while Mel Ott, who did a fine job of managing the Giants into third place, led in homers with 30 and Johnny Mize of the Giants knocked in 110 runs. Bonham of the Yankees won 21 games as did Beazley while Mort Cooper of the Cards, who couldn't win either of his series' starts, topped the National pitchers with 22 triumphs.

Cooper and Gordon won the most valuable player awards.

Home runs by Lou Boudreau, serving his first year as Cleveland manager, and Rudy York of Detroit gave the Americans a 3-1 triumph in the All-Star game and the Americans then shut out a service team managed by Mickey Cochrane 5-0. Rogers Hornsby was named to the Hall of Fame.

With benefit games during the season and a large slice of world series proceeds, baseball contributed nearly a million dollars to war relief funds. Because of the war-time dimouts in the East, night games were replaced by twilight contests. An epidemic of bean ball pitches caused the National league to threaten a $200 fine for managers for every occurrence. Military calls and transportation problems forced 15 of the 41 minor leagues to fold up. Baseball attendance was off some eight per cent.

General Manager Larry MacPhail of Brooklyn resigned to enter the army and was replaced by Branch Rickey from the Cardinals. Detroit released Manager Del Baker and hired Steve O'Neill. Bucky Harris of Washington resigned and was replaced by Ossie Bluege. Bill Terry quit as farm manager of the Giants.

Celebrates 80th Birthday

CONNIE MACK

Connie Mack, owner and manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, celebrates his 80th birthday giving the "V" for victory sign and predicting that 1943 will be baseball's toughest year. Asked about the American league race for '43, the dean replied that the St. Louis Browns "looked very good."

Stage Uphill Fight For Second Victory

Les Myers Scores Bucket Which Decides Rough Tilt For Mansfield

NO WILD WEST movie thriller ever had a thing on that Mansfield-Cleveland Collinwood high school basketball battle on the Tyger court last night. Speed, action, suspense, and plenty of rough stuff, this bucketball brawl had 'em all, and in the end the hero triumphed and the villain went down to defeat.

Score: Mansfield 38, Collinwood 37. With one overtime period.

The holiday crowd was the smallest to see a Mansfield team play at home in recent years, but it made up in noise volume what it lacked in multitude, and it was a Merry Christmas gift the battling Tygers handed them for their support.

Battling Tygers? They were all of that last night, and they had to be. Caught off guard by the wild brand of rough basketball played by the visitors, the Tygers got behind early in the ball game, and it was a long, uphill pull before they finally found themselves in the driver's seat at 35-34 with only a minute and four second of the fourth quarter remaining.

What if Collinwood did tie it up at 35 to 35 and send the game into overtime play? The Tygers had the momentum to carry them through in the extra stanza as they chalked up their second straight victory. For Collinwood it was the third defeat against one win.

Heroes? They all had to be heroes in that kind of a ball game. And when a game's decided by a single point, one point is as good as another on the score sheet. But while Andy Lamoreux and Bob "Peanuts" Baker led the Tyger scoring with 10 points each, it was really Les Myers who saved the day for the Tygers.

Given a chance to tie the score at 34-34, Les missed the free shot but followed it in for a bucket and the Tygers were ahead with only that minute and four seconds to go. Palumbo tied it up with 35 seconds remaining, with a free toss, and then with only 20 seconds left to play Andy Lamoreux saw a pair of free shots roll off the rim and the game go into overtime.

Lamoreux made his next free shot and Mansfield was ahead 36-35 with a minute and 14 seconds of the overtime left to play. Apparently expecting Mansfield to attempt to freeze the ball, the Collinwood defense came charging out, and Les Myers sneaked under the hoop for a sucker shot, and the deciding points of the ball game.

There were only 47 seconds left to go then, but Collinwood was still in there scrapping. Vaiksner, who led the Railroaders with 15 points, missed a pair of free shots, but Will followed up the second one for a bucket and the visitors trailed by only one point.

And there was plenty of wild action in those closing seconds, broken up when Robertson was fouled and offered a free shot. Mansfield took the ball out of bounds instead, and held it for the remaining five seconds.

Mansfield got away to a 3-0 lead at the start, but Collinwood came back to tie it up at 4-4 and go ahead 7-4 and the Railroaders held the lead from then until early in the final period when Mansfield tied it up at 28-28 and later at 33-33. But Mansfield was never ahead from those opening minutes until the last minute of the fourth period.

Collinwood held an 11-9 margin at the quarter, and 21-15 at the half, but Mansfield trimmed it down to 23-26 at the third quarter.

There were 45 fouls called during the rough imbroglio, good for 53 free tosses at the hoop. Mansfield made good on 12 out of 29 free shots and Collinwood on 11 out of 24.

The preliminary tilt saw Madison's fast stepping Rams, paced by Captain Billy Wynn and Harold Hammer, trouncing the Tyger sophomores 32-10.

Methodists Finally Lose

St. John's Cagers Score 40-37 Victory.

Central Methodist's "Old Men" finaly bowed to youth, speed and stamina in the Y. M. C. A. Senior church league cage wars at the Y gym last night, losing to St. John's 30-47.

Saints took a 12-8 lead in the first period, and outscored the Methodists in each of the four stanzas, racking up a 20-11 margin for the final session.

Lutherans got away to a 7-5 quarter lead and 15-7 half-time margin over St. Luke's, and then barely lasted to a 28-25 victory as a Saint rally fell short.

Baptists forfeited to St. Matthew's, while the Episcopal-Congregational game was postponed by agreement until Dec. 31 at 3:30 p m.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Mike Jacobs, making his first visit to Florida this winter, is toying with the idea of running a few fight shows there to entertain the soldiers.... Hamline U., winner of the Kansas City intercollegiate basketball tournament last spring, is peeved because Minnesota wouldn't give them a game. . . . Fred Mandel, jr., owner of the Detroit Lions, hints the club will operate next season on a "semi-pro" basis, if at all. . . . At least that should be an improvement.

STROKE AND DISTANCE.

Si Burick of the Dayton News recalls this story that "Nipper" Campbell, the famous old golf pro who died last week, used to tell on himself. . . . When he was in Florida a few winters ago, Campbell had to undergo an emergency operation. . . . He was rushed into the operating room, a nurse put something over his face and told him to count while he was getting the ether. . . . Nipper reached the twenties before he began to fade, and continued slowly as he lost consciousness, "25, 26, 27, 28—and ain't that a helluva score going out."

DON'T QUOTE ME BUT—

One of Broadway's better-known bookies went for $20,000 on the pro football playoff when he made the Bears over Washington the surest thing in his book since Roosevelt's second campaign.

PICKER'S PICKLE.

Lee Rieselbach of Milwaukee, a Wisconsin grad, felt bad about collecting a bet from Pete Gentelene, a Marquette man, after their alma mammies played football last fall, so he let Pete pick his own winners to get even. . . . Gentelene picked, in order, Michigan over Minnesota, Ohio State over Wisconsin, Notre Dame over Michigan and Great Lakes over Notre Dame. . . . On the last choice, Pete gave Rieselbach the benefit of a tie. . . . That's what you'd call a perfect season.

JOHN THOMAS COPS NOD OVER JENKINS

LOS ANGELES —(INS)— John Thomas, Los Angeles lightweight, loomed conspicuously today in the fight picture following his decisive defeat of Lew Jenkins of Sweetwater, Tex., former world titleholder.

Thomas, too young and too fast for the veteran, scored a technical knockout in the fifth round of their scheduled 10-round bout last night at the Olympic auditorium. Jenkins hardly laid a glove on his opponent.

ROOKIE RELEASED

PITTSBURGH —(INS)— The Pittsburgh Pirates today announced the release of Dick Conger, promising rookie pitcher, to Toronto of the International league, completing a deal for Burgess Whitehead, now in the U. S. navy.

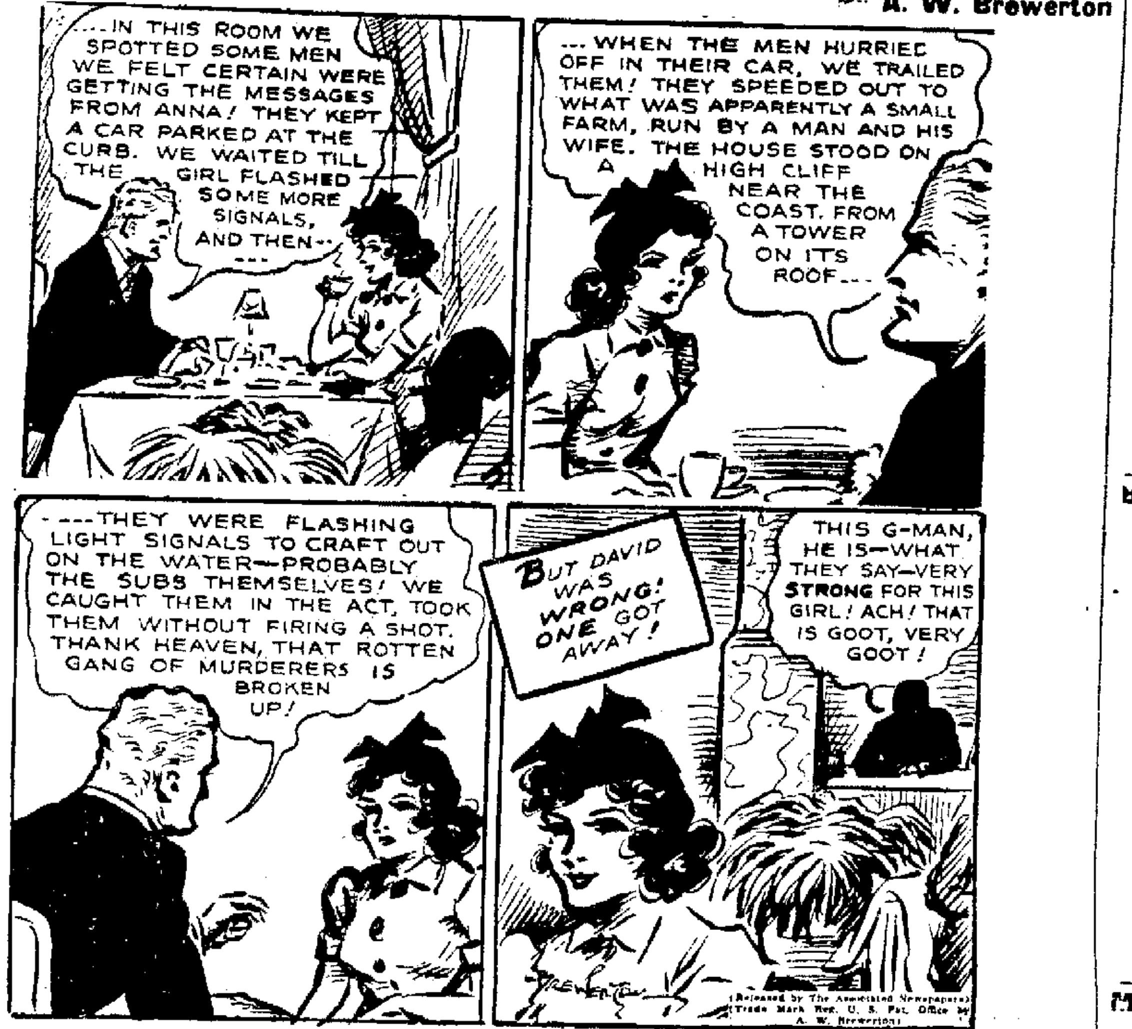
By A. W. Brewerton



...IN THIS ROOM WE SPOTTED SOME MEN WE FELT CERTAIN WERE GETTING THE MESSAGES FROM ANNA! THEY KEPT A CAR PARKED AT THE CURB. WE WAITED TILL THE GIRL FLASHED SOME MORE SIGNALS, AND THEN--- ---
...WHEN THE MEN HURRIED OFF IN THEIR CAR, WE TRAILED THEM! THEY SPEEDED OUT TO WHAT WAS APPARENTLY A SMALL FARM, RUN BY A MAN AND HIS WIFE. THE HOUSE STOOD ON A HIGH CLIFF NEAR THE COAST. FROM A TOWER ON ITS ROOF...
---THEY WERE FLASHING LIGHT SIGNALS TO CRAFT OUT ON THE WATER—PROBABLY THE SUBS THEMSELVES! WE CAUGHT THEM IN THE ACT, TOOK THEM WITHOUT FIRING A SHOT. THANK HEAVEN, THAT ROTTEN GANG OF MURDERERS IS BROKEN UP!
BUT DAVID WAS WRONG! ONE GOT AWAY!
THIS G-MAN, HE IS—WHAT THEY SAY—VERY STRONG FOR THIS GIRL! ACH! THAT IS GOOT, VERY GOOT!

INMATES MAKE NAVY SHIRTS

LONDON— (INS) —The London prison farm factory has shipped the first consignment of 19,800 work shirts made for the United States Navy, Frank H. Homoselle, civilian supervisor, announced.

NARROW PRICE GROOVE HOLDS STOCK LEADERS

Construction Contracts For November Exceed Those of Last Year.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Leading stocks held to a narrow groove in today's early market proceedings.

Up a shade at a moderately active opening were American Can, Chrysler and Sears Roebuck. Small minus signs were posted for American Telephone, Chesapeake & Ohio, Woolworth, Boeing and Union Carbide.

Boardrooms noted the compilation of the F. W. Dodge Corp., estimating construction contracts awarded during November in 37 eastern states amounted to $654,184,000 compared with $458,620,000 in the like 1941 month and $780,396,000 in October of the present year.

Holders of merchandising issues were comforted by the report of the Federal Reserve board that department store collections continued to improve in October with installment accounts receivable declining at a less rapid rate.

JUDGES QUIT

LONDON — (AP) — The Belgian News agency reported today Belgian magistrates had resigned in a body, closing all courts of the country, in a dispute with Nazi occupying authorities.

Scores of judges were arrested as hostages, the agency said. The dispute arose when Belgian judges refused to accept Nazi judicial decrees which they said contravened the Belgian constitution.

LED DEFENSE OF STALINGRAD

Commander Relates Inside Story of How City Beat Off Nazis.

army right away and set to work.

"Hitler put the best he had against Stalingrad. He did not spare quantity or quality. It was a battle for life or death.

"We were continuously attacked by great masses of infantry, tanks, artillery and planes. Our forces were not equal. The enemy had superiority at all points all the time.

"The German command used its favorite method. It intended to smash us with a stunning blow. They thought we hadn't enough guts. They hoped to push us into the Volga with one blow. They did not carry out a methodical offensive. This was their method Sept. 11. This is what they tried again to do Oct. 14.

"The German command made one obvious mistake. Large columns and groups of German soldiers were wonderful targets for our artillery and infantry. We destroyed them in great numbers.

"I believe that nowhere in this war have there been such bloody hand to hand combat. Nowhere have bayonets and hand grenades been so widely used as at Stalingrad.

"The Germans usually attacked by day.

"We counter-attacked usually by night.

"We knew no retreat in the battle of Stalingrad. The Germans advanced only at places where there remained no Soviet soldiers.

"The most awful battle took place Oct. 14 after Hitler's speech commanding the occupation of Stalingrad regardless of cost.

"I honestly never saw anything comparable with that. I would not have believed that such an inferno could open up on earth.

"That day you could not see beyond five metres. Fire and smoke screened the view.

"Artillery and aviation invariably hit their own troops if the distance between trenches is 20 to 40 metres.

"As soon as German planes appear over Stalingrad our artillery opens fire and the Germans send up rockets signaling: 'Don't hit your own troops.' We give exactly the same signal, and then the devil himself couldn't tell where or how to bomb.

"Now winter has come. Winter is our element. Russians are well adapted to fight in winter and no matter what preparations the Germans have made for winter we are better prepared."

The 120-day battle is generally considered the fiercest and stubbornest of this war, beyond comparison with the battles of Moscow, Leningrad and Sevastopol.

It has cost the Germans more than 300,000 killed and robbed them of the fruits of their entire summer campaign.

Beloved Story.

Fay Bainter has the role of a perpetual purveyor of sunshine in "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," the current Ohio attraction. She appears in the title role of the lovable Mrs. Wiggs who refused to be daunted by her poverty and enriched the lives of her children with good-nature and smiles. Vera Vague and Hugh Herbert top the supporting cast as "Miss Hazy" and Marcus Throckmorton," respectively a fluttery spinstress and a scalawag suitor. All the Wiggs children with the geographical names are portrayed in the picture and their horse "Ameriky" also has an important part.

Henry Again.

Henry Aldrich gets into another peck of trouble in his new picture, "Henry Aldrich, Editor," opening at the Madison Thursday to run through Saturday. His latest predicament stems from the fact that he believes that by sensationalizing outside news he can increase his school paper's circulation. He gets arrested for arson but manages to extricate himself in the best Aldrich fashion. Jimmy Lydon has the role of Henry and the cast includes Rita Quigley, John Litel and Charles Smith. The Little Tough Guys and the Dead End Kids are featured in the second picture "Mugtown."

Action Story.

Murder and a fire at sea furnish some of the excitement in "I Live On Danger," showing on the double bill at the Ritz. Chester Morris has the role of a "special events" man who covers these affairs and also saves an innocent man from the electric chair. Jean Parker and Roger Pryor are in the supporting cast. "Busses Roar," the second picture, presents Richard Davis and Julie Bishop in a story of Japanese saboteur activities on the West coast. Some of the action takes place on a San Francisco bound bus.

Uproarious Adventure.

"My Sister Eileen," the uproarious adventure of two Columbus, O., girls who storm Broadway in the search of a career, opens Thursday at the Park. Rosalind Russell and Janet Blair appear as the sisters who take up their abode in a Greenwich Village apartment that has about as much privacy as a goldfish bowl. Brian Aherne, June Havoc and Allyn Joslyn are in the cast. "About Face," with William Tracy and Joe Sawyer, is the second attraction. This is another in the "Tanks A Million" series.

EXPECT SWIFT GAS DECISION

Washington Observers See Byrnes Getting Report Today on 'Facts.'

he would expect "industry at every level to be as serious on the maintenance of rationing integrity as its government is."

Meantime, OPA banned the issuance of new "B" and "C" supplemental ration books in the east pending completion of new mileage tables and instructions to local rationing boards on a "new and tougher policy."

New mileage tables were necessary for the guidance of local boards as result of the one-gallon cut in "B" and "C" coupons which reduced the amount of occupational driving obtainable with the supplemental rations.

An OPA spokesman said local boards would be relied upon not to issue a number of "B" and "C" coupons in excess of those previously granted to an applicant. If they grant extra "B" and "C" coupons indiscriminately, the effect of the coupon cut—designated to save 25,000 barrels of gasoline a day—will be lost, he explained.

In addition, the boards will be expected to get tough on ride-sharing and alternate transportation requirements. A spokesman said these provisions were only loosely enforced in the past in the issuance of supplemental rations.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

VOICE OF BROADWAY
Speaking For Myself.

My heart has always gone out to the movie critics who, in order to catch all the films, A and B, which Hollywood sees fit to air-mail to Broadway, dash hither and yon from theater to projection room and often find themselves viewing a picture at the unholy hour of 9 in the morning.

Kilgallen

Only with a profound shudder can I contemplate the vision of these pitiful creatures who are forced to rise from their beds in the middle of the night, down that first cup of coffee, and grope drowsily through the dawn to the near-vacant loge of a cinema house.

Now, I love the movies. No one is more addicted to the celluloid drama than I, but in the morning, no. At 9 a. m., I don't think Charles Boyer or Jack Benny, Bob Hope or Bing Crosby at their most devinely entertaining could give me anything more than a wide yawn and an uncontrollable urge to curl up.

After thinking it over, I've definitely decided I don't want to be a movie reviewer when I die.

Several revolutionary notes in Latin-decor night clubs have been struck by the Riobamba, the lavish new saloon that opened last week. First, the bistro is opening up a brand-new South American country for cafe exploitation by choosing to style the place after Ecuador instead of Brazil, Argentina or any of the other old standbys.

For another thing, the entertainment is amazingly electric, ranging from Indian to Latin to plain American. Usually a club on that beam offers (1) a Latin bombshell singing vivaciously but unintelligibly in Spanish, (2) a Brazilian bombshell crooning obscure Portugese ditties, and (3) a chorus line which never can be understood anyway.

Departing from this patern, the Riobamba is offering Jane Frohman, a nordeamericana with excellent diction; Romo Vincent, a highly non-tropical funny man, and the Chandra-Kaly dancers, whose exotic Oriental routines are certainly not south of the border.

It makes quite a nice change.

I wonder what's happened to all the honorary colonelships a few of the states were passing out a few years ago. Remember when Mae West and Shirley Temple became Kentucky colonels? Times when all you had to do was send in 25 cents and by return mail came your certificate, genuine Sam Browne belt and, if you were dealing with a state below the Mason-Dixon line, a swizzlestick for a mint julep. Only a few seasons ago, the bistris were thick with celebrating "colonels" and hardly a night would pass without a bandleader being asked to play some "colonels" state song. That all seems a long, long time ago.

Monty Woolley's haughty inebriate in the picture "Life Begins at 8:30" was a classic among drunk portrayals, but his excellent job may conceivably lead some citizens astray, and I wonder that the Hays office didn't think of it. Woolley is in his cups much of the film, but his dialog and delivery remain polished and deadly. It will be pretty upsetting if any considerable number of movie fans get the idea they can achieve a similar brilliance merely by absorbing enough straight Scotch. . . . Christmas in New York seems more than a little strange this year with the huge balloon-lighted tree in Radio City a dimout casualty. But even sadder is the fact that the little trees in parks and on lawns and in tenement windows won't be lit up to give New York for a few brief nights the cozy atmosphere of a small town.

Once again I am moved to realize that the Little Flower is a man of many parts, many sides, many moods. He has been the spearhead of the drive against burlesque both on 42nd St. and in its more legitimate theater attire. He certainly hates burlesque.

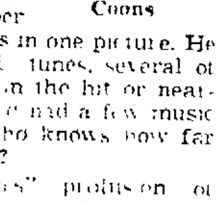
But a gremlin who sits on the mayor's desk, right near his inkwell tells me that on the very day his License Commissioner was moving against "Wine, Women and Song," Fiorello was penning a fan letter to the infant son of Lou Costello.

The gremlin wonders if Fiorello knows—as everyone else does—that Costello was long a pillar of the burlesque circuit, as was his partner, Mr. Bud Abbott.

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—It shouldn't be put down as a hard and fast rule, but it does look as if the first step in becoming a prolific song writer is to skip the music lessons.



Coons

That fellow Irving Berlin knew so little about music he was strictly a one-finger composer, and see what a handicap that was. Berlin's "Holiday Inn" holds the the present record for number of original songs in one picture. He turned out 11 tunes, several of which are now in the hit or near-hit class. If he'd had a few music lessons, now who knows how far he'd have gone?

"Holiday Inn's" profusion of tunes is about to be topped. "Thank Your Lucky Stars" will have 17 originals, all by one man named Arthur Schwartz.

Schwartz, like Berlin, escaped any formal musical training. What he has he picked up "by ear." That's because his father, a Brooklyn lawyer, had an older son trained in music and thought that enough for one family. But Arthur learned, he doesn't remember just how, and at 14 he made his musical debut at Cortelyou's movie emporium, Brooklyn. He remembers playing the William Tell overture while Tom Mix raced across the badlands intercepting bandits.

A FELLOW like Schwartz is always a disappointment to folks who expect Tin Pan Alley's boys to be showy, color-splashed gentlemen who wear berets and race-track checks. Schwartz is cordial, frank, amiable and looks like a lean and successful young New York lawyer, which is what he would have been if tunes hadn't kept ringing in his head.

For this career he went to New York university, with three years of law at Columbia. He won a Phi Beta Kappa key (which isn't exactly common in Tin Pan Alley) and began to practice law. Even then, he wrote a song. It has positively the worst title in the world, "Baltimore, Md., You're the Only Doctor For Me."

SOMEHOW after 1926 when he contributed songs to "The Grand Street Follies," none of them hits, he veered away from the law and soon made tunes his business.

Writing 17 tunes for one movie wasn't an unusual chore for him. He has done 10 Broadway shows, with 15 to 24 songs each, and seven shows in London.

His favorite Schwartz tune is "I See Your Face Before Me," but his best-seller is "Dancing In the Dark." But he admits he doesn't know a hit tune when he hears one, and is incapable of judging his own work.

COUNTY HEALTH BOARD GRINS AT NEW BUS EDICT

Had Argued Strongly to Obtain Relaxation of Order on Pupils From ODT.

Richland county's board of health today shared in the victory of the nation's bus-riding school children over the Office of Defense Transportation.

Relaxing Director Joseph Eastman's original ultimatum that youngsters would have to walk up to two miles to school after Feb. 1, the ODT yesterday delegated to local school officials permission to interpret the regulations pertaining to "extreme danger" and "serious physical hardship."

Aroused by the order, the county health board a month ago directed Dr. W. B. Wild, city-county health commissioner, to address protests to Eastman, the Canton ODT district office, the state board of health and to Delbert Woodford, state director of transportation.

"During winter months in our health district there are many days," Dr. Wild wrote, "when the school buses are delayed by ice, snow or other abnormal conditions of roads. Some days these buses cannot make rounds at all. On such occasions the Richland county board of health believes it would be most unwise for children to have to walk a mile and a half, stand around waiting for their bus an indefinite length of time, and take the risk of injury to their health.

"It is not fair to force the children to take the risk of serious illness, especially when half of the physicians of the community are no longer available and while so many able-bodied adults who could easily walk are getting transportation.

"In short, if enforcement of the regulation is insisted on the Richland county board of health will advise parents to keep these children home in unfavorable weather."

Virtually all school district officials throughout the nation voiced protests of the walking orders but so far as can be learned the Richland county group was one of a very few health boards to directly oppose the edict.

GUARD CITED

Faces Car Operation Charge After Accident.

Dan O'Brien, 41 Greenwood avenue, a guard at Ohio State reformatory, was to appear in traffic court this afternoon on the charge of unsafe operation of his auto.

According to a report by Patrolman Earl Korn, O'Brien yesterday afternoon swerved his car into a right turn too soon after passing a county truck driven by Earl Brown, 222 East First street, at North Mulberry street and Surrey road, causing a collision. O'Brien was arrested by Korn.

Side-slipping of a trailer threw a tractor driven by Jack Finn, Akron, out of control on Lexington avenue yesterday, the carrier shearing off a utility pole belonging to the Ohio Public Service company.

STILL HANDLING TRUCK APPEALS

Despite the fact that most problems of Richland and Ashland county truckers will be handled by the newly established temporary field office of the Defense Transportation organization, truckers of the area will continue to file their appeals with the County Farm Transportation committee at 78½ North Diamond street.

Haines Reichel, who will be remembered in Mansfield for his former connection with the Rocky Fork CCC camp near here, is in charge of the new office in connection with the Chamber of Commerce office in the Farmers' bank building. His office will be opened from 8:30 a. m. to 5:30 p. m. Mondays, Tuesdays and Wednesdays until further notice is given.

PLANES COLLIDE KILLING SEVEN

Crash Occurs During Formation Flight of B-24's Over Pueblo Airbase.

(By International News Service)

PUEBLO, Colo. — Seven men were dead and an eighth was missing today as a result of a spectacular mid-air collision of two four-motored B-24 Consolidated Liberator bombing planes over the bombing range of the Pueblo airbase.

Names of the seven victims were disclosed after all next-to-kin had been notified. They were:

First Lieut. Gerald E. Smetts, Oakland, Cal.; Second Lieut. Bliss M. Shannon, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Second Lieut. Adam C. Thompson, jr., East Hampton, N. Y.; Second Lieut. Charles T. Bowe, Flushing, N. Y.; Staff Sgt. Charles S. Meisemheimer, Jefferson, Tex.; Sgt. Victor H. McGregor, Casper, Wyo.; and Sgt. James H. Cooney, jr., Baton Rouge, La.

The public relations officer at the base disclosed that the two planes were flying in formation, one slightly higher and behind the other. The front one rose suddenly into the path of the other. Its tail was sheared off and it crashed before any of its seven crew-members could bail out.

The second plane limped back to the Pueblo base, after five men parachuted to earth.

Four were found safe but the fifth was still missing early today.

The pilot and navigator remained with the second bomber to "nurse it back" to its base.

Air base officials said the names of the crewmen of the second bomber which returned to the base could not be disclosed, pending discovery of the fate of the missing man.

Flies Turkeys to Yankee Bomber Unit In Tunisia

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa—(UP)—One American bomber squadron in Tunisia will have turkey for Christmas dinner thanks to Lieut. Robert S. Dorsey, Pittsburg, Kan.

Dorsey, who flew in a load of 16 live turkeys in his bomb bay, worried all the way back from the unrevealed place where he got them, lest he would have to jettison the birds in case he was attacked.

Maj. Joe Cunningham, Clarksburg, W. Va., squadron leader, who had warned Dorsey of "dire consequences" if anything happened to the turkeys, praised him for his feat as though he had contributed another enemy plane or so to the number shot down by the 12th U. S. Air Force.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Senate Minority Leader McNary (R., Ore.) predicted today Republican and Democratic advocates of economy in government would join forces in the next session of congress to combat "waste and bureaucracy."

With Republicans elected to 209 of the 435 house seats, and 38 out of 96 seats in the senate, the party's lawmakers expect to have a powerful voice in legislative affairs and already are counting on Democratic support in some issues.

TRUCKERS GIVE SUNDAY TIME TO MOVE RATIONING BOARD OFFICES

Members of Local No. 40, Truckers union, an AFL affiliate, will add to their war effort by contributing their services Sunday in moving the furnishings of the Richland county war price and rationing board from 43 North Mulberry street to new offices at 58½ North Main street, second floor of the Warner building.

Two trucks will be donated by the Pioneer Storage company and the Frank Williams Transfer and Storage company.

Twenty or more members of the union will conduct the operation under the direction of Rudy Schneider, business agent for the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Warehousemen and Helpers union, more commonly known as the Truckers local. Work will begin at 2 p. m.

Office furnishings of the gasoline panel will be carried to the new ration board headquarters from the temporary office which has been operating for two weeks at 102 Mohican building.

The ration board office, closing Thursday evening, will reopen in the new location Monday morning. Nelson Neff, chief clerk, has announced. No office hours will be maintained Saturday.

Details of the moving were worked out yesterday by Chairman Charles Beelman of the ration board and Business Agent Schneider.

The North Main street office is sufficiently large, Beelman says, to accommodate almost any rush of applicants for various ration cards and will also accommodate group conferences.

Tire Company, Union Hosts To Children at Theater.

Final surveys today showed that more than 900 children enjoyed the Labor-Management Christmas party yesterday at the Park theater given by Local 17, United Rubber Workers of America, and the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company. It was announced yesterday that 600 had participated.

Arrangements were in charge of Frank Berkey, personnel manager for the company, and Desmond Walker, president of the union. The children's party idea originated several months ago when union members voted to abandon their annual summer picnic plans in favor of the Christmas idea. Yesterday's festivities were a result of the employer-employe joint effort.

UP and DOWN THE STREET

Roses and Christmas flowers from sons stationed on far-flung battle lines will be received by several Mansfield families, Christmas day through Richland county chapter of the Red Cross. Orders for flowers from American men on fighting fronts overseas were placed with national Red Cross field representatives some time ago and they are now being relayed to home chapters. Five orders have already been received here and the county executive office expects others to follow, Miss Marion Hooper, executive secretary, said.

What gasoline panel members thought must be a nice Christmas greeting in the morning mail turned out to be some pages from a "C" gasoline coupon book. Where they were found or by whom remained the secret of the anonomyous sender. Several "A" books were reported lost following registration several weeks ago at Mansfield senior high school but few losses have been reported recently, William Althouse, board member said.

Members of the police saboteur squad were still without trace today of the culprits who sabotaged 12 dozen Christmas cookies from the Albert Warga home, 279 Home avenue, between midnight and dawn yesterday. Through the fore part of Monday night Mrs. Warga used up all her sugar ration and copious quantities of eggs, not to mention great amounts of labor and skill, in baking the Yuletide goodies for the two Warga children and the neighbors' children. Worn out, the Wargas slept soundly and didn't hear the desperadoes who looted the cookie jars. "They're worse than Japs," Warga declared today.

GROUP WOULD REVISE U. S. LABOR LAWS

Seeks To Outlaw Strikes In War Industries, Set Up New Labor Board.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — An all-embracing legislative program for sharp revision of federal labor laws, including suspension of the 40-hour provision as a standard work week, was reported today drafted tentatively for presentation to congress early next year.

In its present form the plan would strip the administration of power to deal independently with labor-management problems.

Instead, that authority would be turned over to a new war labor board, created by congress but restricted by law from laying down any orders and assuming any powers not specifically delegated by congress.

As outlined by one member of the group, who declined use of his name, the legislation would:

1. Suspend the premium pay requirement in the wages and hours law, although permitting overtime pay for work in excess of 40 hours with the specification that it be paid in war bonds.
2. Outlaw strikes in war industries.
3. Prevent closed shops and maintenance of membership clauses in labor contracts in industries handling government work.
4. Amend the corrupt practices act so as to bar labor unions from making contributions to political campaigns.
5. Set up the new war labor board, its membership to be composed of representatives of the CIO, the AFL, the National Association of Manufacturers, the United States Chamber of Commerce, and the public.
6. Revive the Hobbs bill, which would subject labor unions to prosecutions under the federal anti-trust and anti-racketeering laws.

The congressman who disclosed the plans said the present general wage scale must be maintained in order to avoid disruption of the nation's economic balance.

500,000 Sons of Italy Pledge Aid To Allied Victory

WASHINGTON—(INS)—The 500,000 members of the order of the Sons of Italy today were pledged to aid in every way possible to bring about a United Nations victory.

Superior Court Justice Felix Forte of Massachusetts, supreme president of the order, told a press conference that 6,000,000 Americans of Italian origin are solidly united against Mussolini, Fascism and dictatorship all over the world.

Forte said that for 20 years Fascist agents in the United States have spread propaganda among Americans of Italian origin about the miracles of Mussolini and the Fascist regime which misled "large numbers of Americans of Italian origin into believing the virtues of the Mussolini government."

"We've seen the light. Our attitude is based on the fact that until now there has never been a war between Americans and Italians. That is the reason our organization has passed a resolution calling upon all Italians in Italy to greet the American soldiers, if ever they set foot on Italian soil, not as conquerors but as liberators."

SOVIET ARMY DRIVING BACK INTO UKRAINE

Nazis Reported Bombing Own Troops In Retreat as Russians Advance.

German troops in attempt to send them back into battle.

A German non-commissioned officer captured by the Russians reportedly said all the officers of his company had been killed in the last six days, that losses in the ranks were between 60 and 70 per cent and that the German high command had threatened to turn artillery on his unit if it retreated.

Columns of frost-bitten prisoners are trudging eastward from the middle Don sector. They are wearing thin overcoats, their heads are swathed in cloth and their boots are wrapped in rags.

(An Exchange Telegraph Moscow dispatch said Russian tank columns had made a total break through in some sectors and reached the great open spaces leading westward. Russian infantrymen are quickly filling in the gaps between tank wedges which are thrusting south and southwestward, the dispatch said.)

Driving across the Rostov-Voronezh-Moscow railroad, the Russians broke across the border of the Ukraine at points 150 miles east of Kharkov.

Communiques revealed that the Germans in some sectors were now surrendering in mass, giving up with all their arms and under their commanding officers, as the Russians reached them.

One of two powerful armies in this middle Don offensive was thrusting southwestward in the vicinity of Rossosh, 150 miles east of Kharkov, while another drove southward toward Millerovo, 120 miles north of Rostov-on-Don, gateway to the Caucasus.

The Russians continued on the offensive also northwest and southwest of Stalingrad and in the city itself.

Shock troops led by the famous guards crossed into the rich Ukraine at the town of Popovka, on the Rostov-Moscow railroad, and several other points.

A special Red Army communique told the story of the drive as Russia's third offensive of the winter entered its eighth day—eight big towns and scores of villages taken in a single day—5,700 prisoners taken yesterday alone to bring the seven-day total to 20,200—7,000 Axis troops killed Monday alone—108 tanks, 1,637 guns of various calibers, 2,369 machine guns, 6,735 motor trucks, 5,500 horses, 82 ammunition, arms and provisions dumps taken between Dec. 16, when the drive started, and last night.

The vital Rostov-Voronezh-Moscow railroad on which the Germans depended for their north-south communication to protect their entire Don river front had been cut over a distance of 100 miles and at point after point the Russians were well west of it.

"In the area of the middle stream of the Don our troops continued their successful offensive in the same directions as previously and pursuing the defeated German Fascist troops which retreat in disorder, occupied several scores of populated places," the special communique said.

In one sector a complete enemy battalion, with all its equipment and headed by its commanding officer, surrendered in mass.

All the towns mentioned as captured in the special communique were along or near the Rostov-Voronezh-Moscow railroad, in an area as far as 215 miles west of Stalingrad, as close as 150 miles east of Kharkov and as close as 150 miles north of Rostov-on-Don, gateway to the Caucasus.

It was believed that the Russians had by-passed the big railroad junction of Millerovo, which would put them within 125 miles of Rostov.

On other southern fronts the Russians continued their steady progress toward freeing Stalingrad and squeezing to death the 22 German divisions, originally 330,000 strong, whom they had trapped inside the Don river bend.

Goebbels Tries To Bolster Home Front

STOCKHOLM—(AP)—With Germany's food rations generally lower than last year and the war news bad, Propaganda Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels is reported to have mobilized hundreds of Nazi orators to deliver a nation-wide series of "pep talks" to the German public.

Advices from Germany indicate a program of mass meetings already is under way, with Goebbels and Dr. Robert Ley, labor leader, setting the pace.

Coincidentally the German press has begun a wide scale morale-boosting offensive, hammering home the theme that Axis setbacks in North Africa are unimportant because the war will be decided in Russia.

Adolf Hitler's newspaper, the Voelkischer Beobachter, declared the objective properly was Europe, not Africa, and that after Russian resistance is wiped out "we will soon regain on the southern front what we have had to give up."

RAF Attacks Block Vital Nazi Railways

LONDON —(AP)— Throughout northern France and the low countries many railroads were blocked and vital German military transport facilities were in smoking ruins today in the wake of widespread fighter and light bomber operations by the RAF under last night's full moon, British sources said.

The air ministry reported attacks on many railway targets and damaging of many locomotives and authorities indicated the "intruder" sweeps were the largest in weeks.

Attacks were made on rail yards near Ghent and at Saint Lo, Abbeville, Le Preport, Saint Pol and La Chapelle.

Air fields also were assaulted. All planes taking part in these operations over land returned safely.

HURT IN FALL

Man Knocked Unconscious In Sidewalk Accident.

Williams Potts was admitted to General hospital this morning after falling on the sidewalk in front of the W. T. Grant company and striking his head.

Upon regaining consciousness almost two hours after being admitted to the hospital at 11 a. m., Potts said he was unable to give the reason for his falling.

The attending physician guessed his age at about 60 years and said that he judged the man had a skull fracture although no X-rays had been made. Ambulance drivers who took Potts to the hospital and city patrolmen who reported the case stated that they knew nothing of the cause of the accident.

SEES RATIONS UNDER DEMAND

Bureau Declares Fats, Oils and Butter to Be Hard Hit.

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Civilian rationing of food fats and oils, including butter, margerine and shortenings, at 15 per cent below the demand were foreseen today by the bureau of agricultural economics as the result of increasing needs for the military and lend lease.

The bureau said, about 17.5 pounds of butter and margerine per person will be available to meet an expected demand of 20.5 pounds. The demand for shortening and lard was fixed at 26.2 pounds and the supply at 23 pounds.

Supplies of fats in other food products such as bread, cake and canned soups, were calculated at 7.7 pounds per person against a demand of 10.4 pounds.

Puzzle--to Whom Are These Addressed?

Here's some of the hundreds of holiday letters and greeting cards that will go undelivered by the Mansfield postoffice this Christmas season unless they bear three-cent postage which entitles them to directory service. Part of the enormous volume of mail handled by the Mansfield postoffice this season the letters and cards bear illegible or misdirected addresses. Most of them carry only one and a-half cents postage, though they are sealed, which dooms them for the dead letter office. Postmaster Herman E. Homberger is shown here, seated, looking over a box of letters that Vern F. Hauserman, postal clerk, has just checked and marked for that office.

out. Outside I saw that huge rock resting where the front of the bus should have been."

Manko, 30, is a graduate of the University of Pittsburgh. His pal, James Burger, 29, riding beside him on the rear seat, died after being taken to a hospital. Both were metallurgists for the Jones and Laughlin Steel corporation.

John A. McCarthy, 27, of Monaca, regaining consciousness, asked the undertaker driving him from the wreckage to the hospital:

"Oh, where am I? What happened?"

McCarthy's left leg had to be amputated.

Helen Phillips, 27, of Aliquippa, an employe of the Pittsburgh Mercantile company, A. J. and L. subsidiary, suffered severe shock and lacerations.

The bus, smashed in two, rested against a steel guard-rail, which prevented its rolling down a 50-foot embankment upon tracks of the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie railroad. One of the passengers, Ben Watkins, was hurled to his death on the tracks.

Safety crews and air raid wardens trying to free the bodies worked for hours in constant danger of another rock about 25 feet in circumference teetering precariously on the overhanging cliff.

Although the outgoing mail is tapering off, the amount of incoming mail is increasing and all efforts are being made by the postal department, Homberger said, to speed delivery service by truck and carrier.

A special force is working on a collection of nearly 3,000 letters which could not be delivered due to illegible or improper addresses. All first class mail will be given directory service, but third class mail will be sent to the dead letter box.

Parcel post delivery service will continue Christmas day and there will be service on "specials." A fleet of four trucks will be in operation for parcel post deliveries but there will be no carrier service. Windows will also be closed.

CD Officials Want Raid Sirens Adjusted By Engineers.

Engineers of the Federal Electric company, Chicago, will make necessary adjustments on Mansfield's 10 air raid sirens before the equipment will be paid for, Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch, civilian defense co-ordinator, declared today.

Members of the city defense council have heard explanations of various sound engineers on suggested remedies of apparent defects in the siren operation but insist that the manufacturing company experts who recommended the number required and their placement return to make proper solutions of the problems.

In some instances, Kalbfleisch said, the sirens possibly have been placed too near the ground, the hoods throwing the sound down. The result, engineers say, is that persons nearby cannot hear the sound which is carried to remote distances.

Crawford, Marion, Morrow and Wayne counties also exceeded their quotas. Crawford bought bonds totalling $2,129,710 exceeding its quota of $1,947,000. Marion, with a quota of $1,669,000, reached $1,922,725. Morrow county invested $319,000, topping a quota of $278,000, and Wayne county's sales hit $2,644,478 as against a quota of $2,503,000.

Ashland raised $1,300,000 of its quota of $1,669,000 while Holmes county obtained $304,000 towards a quota of $556,000.

FIGHT ANOTHER BOSTON BLAZE

Firemen Battle Flames In Charlestown Section.

BOSTON —(INS)— Weary, shorthanded fire fighting forces today battled another serious blaze, which swept the five-story city-owned Roughan's Hall building in City Square, Charlestown.

Fireman John J. Scanlon, 50, was injured when he fell from a ladder at the burning building.

A market, Donovan's Tavern and two vacant stores were burned. Cause of the fire was not determined.

to send in reinforcements from Sumatra.

Combined with the overland drive into Burma, the Sabang bombardment undoubtedly was designed to point out to the Japs the growing strength and striking power of the United Nations which are now on the offensive in New Guinea and the Solomon islands to the east.

The communique indicated that the raid was carried out in force in an effort to destroy the base from which the Japanese control numerous sea lanes to the Indian ocean, Bay of Bengal and China sea.

Returning fliers said that flames started during the attack could be observed for a considerable distance. All craft participating in the raid returned safely to their base ships.

New Georgia Besieged By Aerial Attacks

WASHINGTON —(INS)— America's aerial offensive against Japanese positions on New Georgia island today assumed siege proportions, with U. S. domination of the central Solomons hinging on the success of the continuing bombing attacks.

Importance of controlling the New Georgia area is indicated by the fact that American bombers and fighter planes have been assaulting the new Jap airfield there almost daily for about two weeks.

The belief has been growing in official circles that U. S. forces eventually may seize the Munda area on New Georgia or will blast it out of existence as an enemy invasion springboard against Guadalcanal.

Except for American aerial activity, there has been little other action at sea or on land in the southern Solomons, probably because both sides are building up reserve strength for another clash.

Most amazing to military observers has been the virtual disappearance of the Jap air force from the south Pacific. Some believe the enemy air arm in that area has been crippled badly, while others contend the Japs are gathering planes for a new Pacific drive.

Battle reports show that American forces are in control of the air on every Pacific war zone—the Aleutians, the Solomons and New Guinea.

Friends of Mrs. Heath said she would call at least six more witnesses this afternoon, while the defendant has indicated that he, too, will call a large number to refute the plaintiff's allegations.

SLEEPY GUARD LOSES PRISONER

Army Deserter Flees Train at Galion While Officer Snoozes In Seat.

GALION—The escape of a prisoner is hardly news these days, but when a guard goes to sleep, handcuffs in his pocket, and his prisoner sitting peacefully beside him, the escape becomes a little more colorful.

The guard was taking his prisoner, a United States army deserter from New York state to a camp in Missouri. The two were en route through Galion on a westbound Big Four passenger train. The guard dropped into a doze shortly before the train stopped in Galion and 10 minutes after it pulled out of here, he awakened to find that his prisoner had taken advantage of the situation.

Galion police were notified of the escape by the guard only when the train arrived in Bellefontaine some time later. Authorities in Willoughby are holding a man who answered the description of the prisoner.

GALION—Roland E. Ireland has been appointed a substitute mail carrier at the Galion postoffice to succeed John R. Beecher, who has been promoted to regular carrier.

For the first time in the history of the local office, a complete delivery of mail was made Sunday. The unusual number of letters and greeting cards going through the mail this year made the extra delivery necessary.

An extra truck is being used to deliver parcel post and four temporary substitute carriers out of the postoffice are Bernard Mansfield, James Nichols, John Van Meter, and Willard Zucker.

tured prisoners and war material, the high command said.

In central Tunisia, Fighting French forces still were driving to smash through to the eastern Tunisian coast, and had beaten off a German counter-attack west of Kairouan, presumably at Pichon about 60 miles west of Sousse.

Front dispatches from Libya said British Eighth army troops were advancing on Buerat El Hsun, 50 miles west of Sirte along the Mediterranean coast and only 180 miles from Tripoli. This meant the British had pushed more than 200 miles west of El Aghella since launching the renewed offensive to drive Marshal Erwin Rommel's forces out of Libya.

Stabbing ahead of the main American and British troops in Tunisian positions, Allied patrols brushed with German units 15 miles northeast of Medjez-El Bab and 10 miles southeast of Mateur yesterday, while Allied forces were being steadily reinforced for assaults to drive to Tunis and Bizerte, the Axis strongholds in Tunisia.

The French in central Tunisia said the Germans suffered "serious losses" and the Morocco radio reported the French had captured numerous prisoners, armored vehicles and artillery in a thrust southeast of Pont-Du-Fahs.

An Allied spokesman said there were no indications "that the enemy is in any great strength in that area, or anywhere in southern Tunisia."

Rains have turned the northern Tunisia battlefront to mud in many areas, and bad weather reduced even air activity yesterday.

ENGINES OF WAR!

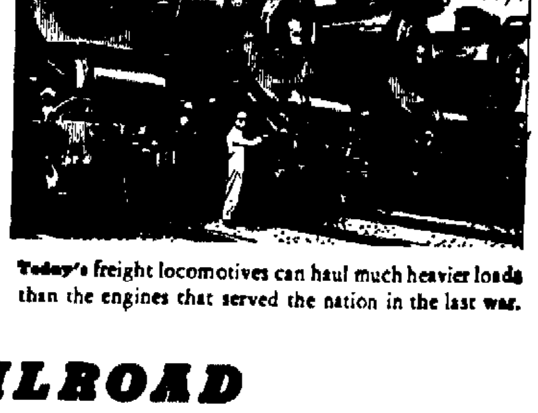
Lined up here, in smart military formation, is a "squad" of the mighty locomotives that work night and day for Uncle Sam.

Passenger engines, their specific job is to move troops. And, with the aid of other locomotives, they are doing this at a rate of over a million troops a month!

To the right are their comrades-in-arms, freight locomotives. Their job is to haul war materials. And they are moving 1,250,000 tons of freight a mile every minute of a 24-hour day!

Of course, to keep up a war pace like this requires the railroads to give right-of-way and a very large part of their passenger and freight equipment continuously to the war effort.

Naturally, under the circumstances, service to the public cannot be all that either you or we would like it to be. Trains may be late. Accommodations and seats may be hard to get. But—with the cooperation of travelers and shippers, the Office of Defense Transportation, the Army, the Navy and Government agencies—the railroads are doing, and will continue to do, everything within their power to provide the best service possible to the public in the midst of the greatest war civilization has ever known.



Today's freight locomotives can haul much heavier loads than the engines that served the nation in the last war.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, WEDNESDAY, DECEMBER 23, 1942.

One more day for final Christmas shopping—and there's still many things from which to choose in Mansfield stores.

Last minute thought—a special delivery Christmas greeting for anyone who has been forgotten—and air mail if it has far to go.

One optimistic analyst contends that "civilization is here to stay"—but some others incline to the belief that it is merely on its way.

Strikes Delay Victory, Cost Lives

A GLOOMY OUTLOOK for the postwar period, as foreseen by some observers, is that readjustment processes will bring disturbed labor relations and many strikes in the United States.

Return to peacetime conditions, and peacetime wages, as compared with present abnormally high wages in war industries and resultant step-up of earnings for many other workers, will naturally bring at least temporary problems, the solution of which will require diplomacy and sound judgment.

But whatever difficulties of this sort may be encountered AFTER the war, the important thing just now is to find a way, if that is possible, to prevent the strikes, slow-downs and war work obstructions that are hampering the national war effort and helping to LOSE the war instead of helping to WIN it.

When any group of persons—ten, a hundred, or a thousand —who are employed in war production or in any line of work directly or indirectly associated with the national war program, go on strike they say, as plainly as it can be said, "We are more interested in looking out for ourselves than we are in winning the war—and, as far as we are concerned, the men in the army and navy can wait for supplies until we get what we are asking for."

So far as can be learned NO STRIKER HAS A SON IN MILITARY SERVICE, and it's also a safe guess that no striker has a member of his immediate family at Guadalcanal, New Guinea, in North Africa, or at any other present danger point.

Millions are at work—earnestly and willingly doing their best to help American industrial production meet ever-growing needs, but even a small percentage of strikers have the effect of weakening the whole national morale and presenting America in a false light to allies and enemies alike.

The first great task of every loyal American is to help win the war.

Pay-as-You-Go Income Tax Plan

TWENTY-SEVEN MILLION Americans will soon be paying heavy income taxes that as time goes on will become even heavier. To all but a mere fraction of this number, personal income taxes will be a new experience. In fact, according to recent surveys, a good proportion of these people do not yet realize they have been included in the taxable brackets. They are making no preparations to pay taxes and are spending their money as fast as they earn it. The threat to government authority and solvency by a mass of potential tax delinquents, is serious.

A practical solution is the prompt adoption of a pay-as-you-go arrangement such as the Ruml plan. Mr. Ruml, former dean of social sciences at the University of Chicago, and chairman of the board of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, observes that: "Nothing can be gained by arguing that people ought to have saved the tax on last year's income out of last year's income. The fact is that they did not do it and now they cannot do it."

Every taxpayer must realize that we cannot survive war, and return to a system of individual freedom unless the government remains solvent. If it is to do that, the people will have to pay taxes and buy bonds on a huge scale. Tax laws must be far-reaching and efficient.

Unrest In Little Albania

ALBANIAN independence is one of this nation's aims. So Secretary Hull has just announced. As the word gets abroad, it will probably add to the Italian troubles in that country.

Unrest is increasing in Albania. In Tirana, capital of the conquered Italian province, guerrillas recently killed 700 Italians. The tottering of Mussolini's empire on North Africa, following upon the complete loss of all his territory on the Red Sea, bids fair to bring about the freedom of Italy's one possession in Europe.

Loss of Albania would be just retribution. In true Axis style the Italians had made a treaty in 1920, promising to safeguard Albanian independence. On Good Friday of 1939 Mussolini broke his country's word and occupied his neighbor's land. This was inexcusable aggression, precisely like the Italian conquest of Tripoli.

Here then, is what twenty years of Fascism have brought to Italy; complete loss, already achieved or pending, of all territory without her borders, and as far as Italy herself is concerned, absolute conquest by Germany without a battle.

Military Japan Must Be Crushed

VERY FEW Americans have had opportunity to learn as much about the Japanese as did Joseph C. Grew during the years he served as United States ambassador. In his newly published book, "Report From Tokyo," he tells of his experiences and conclusions. He is firm on one point: "There is not sufficient room in the area of the Pacific ocean for a peaceful America, for any and all of the United Nations, and for a swashbuckling Japan."

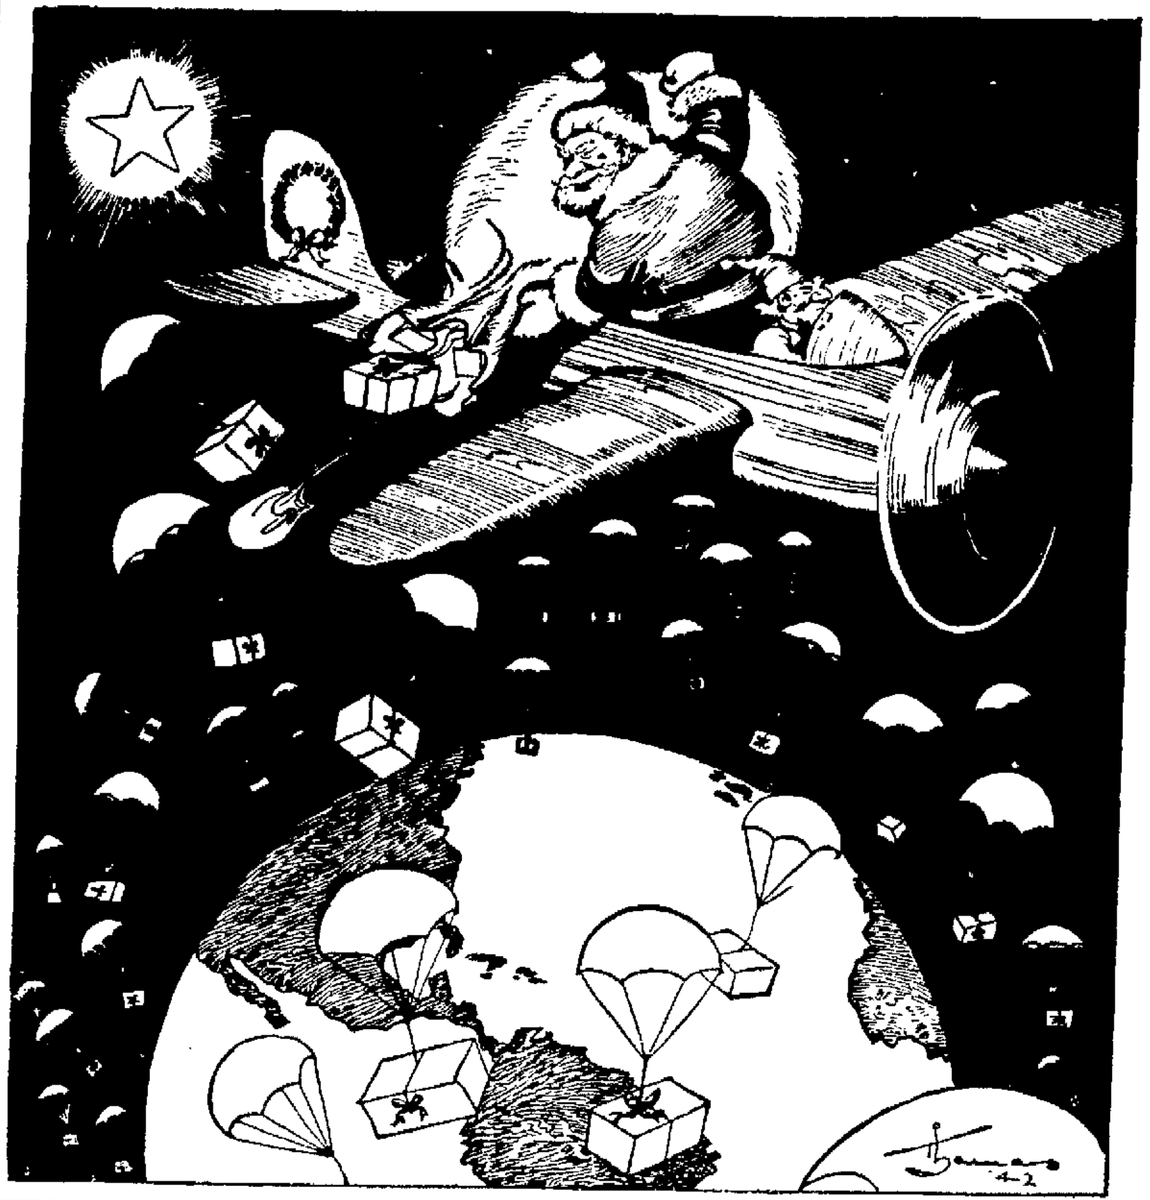
To cure this swashbuckling, there is but one remedy. He says:

> "The Japanese military machine and military caste and military system must be utterly crushed; their credit and predominance must be utterly broken. Only when the Japanese military machine is rendered physically impotent, physically incapable of carrying on its far-flung campaign of crushing and conquering and enslaving those who fall beneath the wheels of the ruthless and utterly pitiless car of Juggernaut, only then will the Japanese people as a whole come to the realization that crime does not pay, that they have been forced to follow false gods, and that the ways of peace are in all respects preferable to the ways of war."

In doing this, the United States will not merely be making itself secure. It will be doing a service to the whole civilized world.

Some will remember a common saying around the turn of the century, "I'm so hungry I could eat a horse"—but the meat shortage may not become that acute.

MERRY CHRISTMAS TO YANKS AROUND THE WORLD



President Facing Inflation Crisis

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON — One of the encouraging offsets to the signs and arrows pointing so surely at inflation is that some fifty million Americans have bought War bonds. Nearly one half of the entire population, and undoubtedly half of the voters—though there is nothing but assumption on this last point, have a stake in preventing inflation.

This assumption that more than half of the voters have bought bonds is on the theory that a comparatively small number of bonds is bought for infants, though many have been bought for children who will reach college age when the ten years for which the bonds run is up.

Now the mere fact that half the electorate has a direct stake in preventing inflation would prove nothing. A vast majority of the people, in fact neary everybody, ought to have been interested in federal taxes long ago. Everybody pays taxes to the federal government directly or indirectly, and has for a great many years.

But the important difference here is that most people, until recently anyway, did not think that they paid the taxes. The folks who did not pay income taxes figured, when they thought about it at all, that the "rich" paid the federal taxes. They never thought about the 100% tax on their cigarets, or the hundreds of other government imposts. So if the federal government seemed to be wasting money, it was somebody else, to their minds, who had to pay the piper.

THAT has changed a good deal, and will probably change more. But there is no obscurity whatever about inflation, once it starts moving. If prices skyrocket too much between now and 1944, and 1946, and 1948, the people are going to register their disapproval very clearly at the ballot box.

No one contends that the government will be able to hold prices as they were. To put it another way, no one contends that the government will be able to continue the dollar at its present purchasing value.

In politics, however, people are not cold, calculating and fair. If prices shoot up too much they hold the government responsible, whether it was the government's fault or not. Just as, in the past, elections have turned on whether there were crop failures or bountiful harvests.

Nobody knows all this any better than Franklin D. Roosevelt. He knows perfectly well that a few more sharp rises in prices will open the door to candidates in 1944 talking about "fifty cent dollars"—the slogan that beat William Jennings Bryan for president in 1896, when FDR was first taking a boyish interest in politics.

SO IT is taken for granted by some observers studying this question that the president will do everything humanly possible to prevent inflation. He has not, so far. He has done some things, but far from enough. Most of the early attacks have been too much of the old anti-corporation profit crusade, though it must be admitted that the president finally went to bat strongly on farm prices, and finally reached the notion of wage freezing.

But there are still too many loopholes — chances for "adjustments," etc. The question is whether the president will risk the resentment of a lot of minorities in order to stave off the avalanche now forming on the hill tops.

Fireside Loneliness

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

A TREMENDOUS amount of nonsense is written about mothers' wisdom entirely beyond our simple capacity; for heroism in which our own decisions played little part.

Take the painful business of birth, for example. You and I know in our secret hearts, sister, that nine times out of ten, we'd duck it if we could, and that we'd yell our heads off about it if said yells would do us a bit of good. But nature, fiercer than our own wills, drives us on.

And even if we welcome maternity, what of it? Any normal female animal can become a mama—and most of them do. Which, may, but frequently doesn't entitle them to medals.

The truth is, many ladies would confer a much greater favor on the human race if they DIDN'T reproduce their kind.

Moreover, if the whole truth is to be told, the first that brings home the bacon endures quite as painful ordeals for the future generation as the hand that rocks the cradle. But do you hear any Theme Songs about Beautiful Father Love? No, you don't. Invariably, mama gets the orchestration.

Also, it is doubtful if any human function is more overrated than the much eulogized "mother instinct." In the first place, there isn't any such thing. And even if there were, of what use would it be?

The fact is, no class of workers know less about their jobs or make more serious blunders than mothers, as a whole. It's a long jump between bearing that human infant and turning that infant into a civilized-fact which most mamas entirely overlook. According to them, a maternity ward should entitle them to gold medals and special exemptions for the rest of their lives.

So, if their case is to be judged on its merits, most of the praise bestowed upon mothers is for service beyond their control or actually never rendered. Yet, on the other hand even the most inefficient mother endures a certain hardship which would break the spirit of the bravest man, yet receives practically no credit for it.

And let us assure you, gentlemen, monotony is harder for the average woman to stand than any number of childbirths.

According to tradition, males are the excitement-seeking sex, while females shun risk, and delight in the peaceful, seclusion of the fireside. But nothing could be farther from the truth. No creature on earth craves excitement as fiercely or loathes boredom as deeply as a woman.

Give the ladies their choice, and ninety-nine out of a hundred will declare, with loud yells, that the Peaceful Fireside is the last place they want to be.

But someone has to stay at home. So mama does it—does it at a cost no man can estimate. She stills the wild leap in her blood, muffles the clamor in her heart, shackles her rebellious hunger for adventure and enters into the loneliness, the monotony, the despised peace and safety of the Domestic life. And, noblest feat of all, makes the Big Boy down in the office and the little babies at home think that "mother likes it."

Would a man do that? Not for a dozen halos and a score of harps.

So give mother a hand! Not for the hifalutin nonsense the poets write about her superbrain, which she actually hasn't; her perfect love, which it generally isn't —but for a service which is more necessary than a Master Mind and even lovelier than a Heart of Gold — FOR THE GRIMLY GALLANT FEAT OF STICKING ON THE JOB!

Timely Editorial

Nor Wind, Nor Rain, Nor Scenery.

Somewhere close to the self starter in the list of things that made the automobile a joy and a delight was the windshield. It shut out not only the wind, but the rain. And it did not shut out the scenery.

The car of the future, we are told, will be all windshield. There will be so much to see that the passengers will forget to help the driver watch the road. Everybody will be bathed in actinic rays and brotherly love.

It goes to show in what a world of unreality and romance designers must live — always seeing things in their mind's eye as they should be, rarely as they are. In their own cars they already have half the windshield plastered shut with use stamps, rationing stickers and other assorted information bearing on the trials of the times. Soon they will add another plaster signifying they have not cheated the state out of its license fee. The driver alone will have a peephole, like the commander in a submarine.—Canton Repository.

Interpreting the War News

Analysis of Situation In Russia Shows Nazis In Desperate Plight

—By LOUIS F. KEEMLE

RUSSIA'S 1942 winter offensive seems to be developing even more promisingly than that of last winter, when the Germans were driven back as far as 200 miles or more on the central front and were pushed out of Rostov, at the mouth of the Don.

This year Rostov has become a key Russian objective. Twenty-two Axis divisions, or more than 300,000 men, are threatened with entrapment between the Don and Volga rivers in the Stalingrad area. About half that number may be cut off in the Caucasus if the Russians reach Rostov.

The Russians are only 120 miles from Rostov, driving directly southward across the Don bend at its western end. They either have taken the important rail center of Millerovo or have it invested.

The rapid Russian progress makes it questionable whether Hitler will be able to effect an orderly withdrawal from Stalingrad. If the Russians re-take Rostov, or even establish themselves on the Don east of the city, the German position will be desperate.

There can be little doubt that the Germans have lost the battle of Stalingrad. That means they have lost the Caucasus and the entire summer campaign.

The significance of Stalingrad is that it was the strategic key to the Caucasus. Had the Germans captured it, there is every probability that Hitler would have achieved his major goal, the rich oil regions. All he got was the lesser Maikop fields, which the Russians destroyed, and it now seems that he may not even be able to hold them.

THE RUSSIANS are confident of ultimate victory in the southwestern part of their country, according to Henry Shapiro, United Press correspondent, who is the only American so far to visit that front to get a first-hand view of the battle.

Shapiro said he has never seen such supreme confidence among all ranks of the Russian army in the liberation of Stalingrad and eventual total victory. From personal observation he reported the extent of the Axis debacle, describing the Stalingrad area as being a "mammoth Axis graveyard" for hundreds of square miles.

The situation as compared to last winter is summed up as follows by Brig. Gen. H. S. Sewell, British military expert:

Last winter the Germans were able to hold out in their strong points even when virtually surrounded by the Russians; but the army that is now before Stalingrad is not established in any well-organized defensive position and its supply line is more seriously threatened than on the central front last winter.

Hitler has admitted that in the winter of 1941-42 his army in Russia had great difficulty in holding out. He took the risk last year but if he does so again it may lead to a great disaster.

Last year the German "hedgehog" defenses were supplied from the air, but the forces at Stalingrad are much greater than those isolated last winter; and it is doubtful if sufficient airplanes are available for the supply services on the eastern front because of the Allied offensive in North Africa.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — After a year of warfare, the home front is finally formed.

It certainly took a bit of doing. National defense is more than three years old, but it wasn't until just the other day that the important general headquarters on the home front were all established and the respective field marshals established with their general staffs.

There still are scores of overlapping responsibilities but the picture is beginning to clarify.

CONSIDER how long we have been in this war and consider how recent were President Roosevelt's sweeping directives which created: (a) James F. Byrnes as director of economic stabilization, with more powers than you can shake a big club at, but most important perhaps supervision over the price administration and rationing agency; (b) Paul V. McNutt, as head of the War Manpower Commission, with supervision over Selective Service, and all the power over labor that the president has yet been granted; and (c) Claude R. Wickard, as food czar, with the responsibility of feeding the public, the military forces and our hungry allies.

Back of this has been the reorganization of the War Production Board. With the rise to power of Charles E. Wilson and Ferdinand Eberstadt, much of the confusion that has racked WPB Chief Donald M. Nelson's unwieldy staff may be cleared up.

In addition, Secretary of Interior Harold L. Ickes, after turning down the tentative manpower commission offer, has been given new and all-important controls over petroleum. William M. Jeffers has been made national rubber administrator and that whole troublesome problem bounced squarely onto his doorstep.

In any consideration of the home front, one is likely to overlook Dr. James M. Landis, who, as director of the Office of Civilian Defense, has an estimated 11,000,000 - man - woman - and - child army in the field. They do everything from getting in the scrap to patrolling our coastal sealanes.

* * *

THERE is also Joseph B. Eastman, director of the Office of Defense Transportation, who has more to say about traveling America's getting about the country than any other person. Elmer Davis, whose Office of War Information is telling us (as well as the rest of the world) what we can be told about it all.

One might add U. S. Attorney General Francis Biddle and J. Edgar Hoover's FBI; and perhaps Rear Admiral Emory S. Land's U. S. Maritime Commission, which is responsible for producing and servicing the millions of tons of wartime shipping.

This is the home front. With a few exceptions, none of these men had such powers a year ago as they have today.

The interesting thing is that this is the first time in World War II the home front has presented a solid battle line. There may be changes in the commands from time to time, but at least the home front is now organized to take the offensive.

Libya's Grand Senussi Also Spiritual Leader

—By DE WITT MACKENZIE

(Editor's Note—This is the second of two articles on the subject of how the war in North Africa is affecting Mussolini's great colonial agricultural development in Libya.)

CAIRO—The Grand Senussi, princely personage who is widely acknowledged as the defacto representative of wartorn Cirenaica, tells me he expects his people to receive their freedom.

The ears of the oppressed are quick to catch the voice of a deliverer. The Grand Senussi doesn't seem to be ambitious personally, but seeks only the freedom of his people.

Libya appears to be another colony which is slipping away from Italy as part of the cost of Mussolini's tragic stupidity. A stiff price it is to pay, too, for the Libya which il duce himself constituted comprises stretches from Egypt on the east to Tunisia and Algeria on the west, and reaches deep into Africa.

I was taken to see the Grand Senussi in one of Cairo's exclusive residential districts.

Probably the greatest hold he has on his people lies in the fact he is spiritual head of a Mohammedan sect. His full name is Sayid Mohammed Idris As Senussi, and he is a grandson of the founder of the Senussi sect—an order which subscribes to the simplicity of early Mohammedan faith.

But about the Grand Senussi, I suppose you won't be content until I tell you he has the good looks. He is tall, slim, and has the customary black beard and mustache, neatly trimmed.

He was wearing a Moslem turban and full-length coat over a silken robe. His only jewel was a handsome green jade ring which he wore on the little finger of his slim right hand.

He is a man of great wealth and comes from an old Arabian family.

Here in Cairo he lives extremely well, but without ostentation. He is variously referred to as "emir," "chief" and "prince."

I asked the Grand Senussi what he thought of Mussolini's assumption of the title of "protector of Islam."

"It's the sort of thing which would only be done by a stupid person like Mussolini," he said. "No one could be protector of Islam unless he embraced the faith and was elevated to the position of protector by his followers. Every Moslem knows that, and so il duce's title is as empty as his head."

War Analyst DeWitt Mackenzie, touring the war zones, goes next to Palestine; thence to India. Since he left New York several months ago, Mr. Mackenzie has been in England, Egypt, Libya and only recently returned from the front where he witnessed Montgomery's drive against Rommel. He expects to return to this country within the next six weeks.

In view of the strategic importance of Libya I inquired whether the Grand Senussi expected some sort of protectorate to be established over his country.

"We feel that we should have our freedom first," he responded. "The rest easily can be arranged. We certainly shall need guidance in our new state, and we shall need help in developing it. I recognize, too, the necessity of all countries co-operating loyally in a postwar rehabilitation of the world.

"Libyan troops which have been fighting with the British Eighth army are a token of our good faith. We want to do our part for the Allied cause. We are proud to be serving with our British friends and we are grateful to them for giving us this opportunity. We are grateful, too, for the kindly protection which they are affording our people in the terrible war which is sweeping our country. We shall not forget."

The Grand Senussi has hopes for the broad development of his country. Education of the masses occupies an important place in his ideas. He himself is a man of much culture.

A Farmer's Diary

'Hang the Housework'

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

THE farmer took me with him into his house. We came into the entry and hung up our overcoats. It was nearly 4 o'clock in the afternoon, but through the open door, I saw that the dinner table had not been cleared.

"Where are you, Mother?" he called.

The farmer's wife came from an upstairs landing, a gray little woman, with a big stack of letters in her hand. Her face was flushed, but she laid them on the table with a proud fillip before she came to greet me.

"Tuesday is my letter-writing day," she said. "Our own two boys in Africa and ten neighbor boys are on my correspondence list. I promised 'em a letter once a week, while they're away—and maybe you'll understand that it's quite a task, although I do enjoy it.

"My house looks simply awful—I haven't washed a dish since morning. I haven't swept and dusted a single room. That stack of newspapers is where I was cutting clippings—and those scraps there are where the kitten took a spell and upset my sewing basket.

"But I was visitin' with the boys — and I don't care! All week, about our work—both Pa and I think what we ought to tell 'em. We listen to the good things on the radio and look the papers and magazines through for what'll be best to send. We know they'll want to know the color of the mare's new colt and about the twin calves that the spotted heifer had last week, and that the family up the road butchered four hogs and brought us down a mess of sausage. We tell 'em such things as the surprise on Grandma S— for her 90th birthday, and who was in the choir on Sunday and which girls asked about them—it's been 18 weeks now that these letters have had priority rating around here.

"See—here's the letters they have written to us." She opened a drawer and showed piles of worn envelopes, neatly bound together. "I've used the last of my rubber bands," she remarked, "but Pa is keepin' me a piece of old inner tube to get shreds of rubber from. He helps me. Honestly, those boys seem almost nearer us now than they ever did—maybe because we keep thinkin' of them so much, and sorta' forget about ourselves.

"And the housework—well, it's always there when I get done. I'll never be so foolish as to let the boys down after having gone this far! Why—the letters mean as much to me as they do to them. Hang the housework!"

Want to Rate a Second Glance? Here's How---

If you like passers-by to give you the ol' "double take," adopt one of the unusual millinery notions currently seen on smart heads about town.

Ingenious uses of felt will help turn the trick. One designer shreds gaily hued strips of felt to look like curled ostrich tips and uses them as a novel fabric for small, forward-tilting sailors. Another millinery creator braids felt into thick, high crown set on a turban base of draped wool jersey, with unique color contrasts for effect.

A clever hat and glove twosome will cause heads to turn. A black wool fez dotted with loveknots of yarn in green, red or turquoise, is matched to gauntlet gloves of black broadcloth with bright yarn fringe sewn around the cuffs and up the sides.

There's nothing like a fanciful hat or colorful hat-and-accessory duo as vitamins for your all-season coats and suits.

HOROSCOPE

For Thursday, December 24

WHILE THE astral promises are for an overwhelming degree of joy, festivity and good will, with the forces and tendencies keyed up to unusual expansiveness and generosity, yet this day is beset with many portents of untoward and regrettable events. This danger arises from over-extravagance.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is have the promise of a year of expansion, growth, progress and good fortune, providing they will keep alert to a peculiar or pernicious undercurrent, born of enmity, malice, intrigues and snares.

A child born on this day while resourceful, capable and moderately ambitious, yet may be easily victimized or subject to treachery and snares.

ARTISTIC WAAC: Third Officer Lorraine Marshall and cards she designed.

(AP Features)

FORT DES MOINES, Ia.—Sixty-seven thousand home folks will get a kick out of the same number of WAACy Christmas cards this year. Designed especially for the WAACS, the gaily colored greeting cards have been snapped up so quickly at the Post Exchange, that the number has been limited to 50 cards per girl.

It all came about this way: Third Officer Lorraine Marshall couldn't get the Army off her mind while she was on furlough visiting her family in Chicago. So, she sketched pictures for the greeting cards. A commercial artist before she took to Army life, it wasn't long before she carried through her ideas to help the WAACS extend Christmas greetings to their civilian friends in military style. WAAC Auxiliary Donna J. Carteen and Corporal Vincent Schall assisted with the sketches.

The results are eight different amusing and delightful designs, depicting the various branches of military service in the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps. There's an oven full of good wishes for the cooks and bakers corps, a "jeep" for the motor corps, an office girl for the administrative service, and four camp scenes. Included also in the selection is a formal greeting card with a place for the sender to insert her own photograph in the WAAC uniform.

Even the familiar Christmas snowman is not neglected. On one card a uniformed WAAC stands between two snowmen wearing WAAC hats. This card reads, "It's Snow Picnic—But It's a Jolly Time I'm Wishing You!"

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"Thank you!" I told the obsequious manager of the Lansfield, "but my father already has provided a car for me. And thank you too," I said to Adams.

I went quickly down the street to the armored car, and Gus, who had been watching for me, held its door open for me.

"Car pulling out right behind us," Gus said as we started out, and at each corner he called out "Not yet," until I was sure we had outwitted them. Then excitedly Gus called out "Here she comes!" and Joe answered: "Then I'll play my ace. Get your card out!"

"That sews it," Gus announced with keen satisfaction. "That baby trailing us tried to crash through after us, and the cop has waved him to the curb. He'll be safe for awhile. So now, Missis Graham, where do you want to go?"

I told him, and Joe guided the car to our destination by a devious route, and when he reached the hotel my father had named, his keen eyes searched the street.

Then Gus and I went into the hotel, following my father's instructions by going through it to the other side.

"I am going to telephone," I said to Gus in low tones. "Please stand just outside the booth door, as if you were waiting to make a call, so that no one else can come within hearing. And if you hear my voice from inside, tap on the glass."

"Okay! I get you," Gus responded, and as I went to the lone booth he was close behind me. Then I dialed the Underwood number, and almost at once heard Harry Underwood's voice.

"Well, Lady Fair," he said, "am I ever glad to hear your voice! I didn't know but old Father Christmas had run off with you."

"No, he hasn't done that yet," I said laughingly, drawing the last word in a way all members of my father's organization use with the meaning "Listen carefully!"

"So-o?" Harry drawled, giving the answering signal. "What's the matter? Losing the well-known charm?"

"Perhaps," I answered. "But I think he has his eye on a younger lassie!"

"Why the old so-and-so!" he exclaimed. "That calls for coffee and pistols at sunrise from either Dicky or me, perhaps both. We'll teach him to act his age."

"Perhaps he isn't so old as he looks," I answered. "Hair turns white quite young sometimes, you know."

"Ah-h!" he returned, and I knew he was on the trail of my discovery.

"But," I went on, "I have a message, a request—to give you from father."

"We mustn't keep him waiting," Harry said quickly. "So go ahead! Shoot the works!"

"Do you remember the morning we could not see Lillian because she was asleep after a terrific headache, and the conversation after she wakened, when I wished to substitute for her in certain work she contemplated, and you named a certain man as being the best in a certain line?"

"I do," he said.

"Father wishes you to get in touch with that man as soon as possible, and have him come over to our hotel."

"Have him bring whatsoe'er he may require with him," I said, "and tell him to come directly to our suite and not to stop at the desk. He is to take the elevator on the ———th street side. And get him there as soon as you possibly can."

"I'll do that little thing," he said. "And, Lady Fair, I'm making three guesses, and though I can't see the woods just now, I'll bet they're all right."

"Check!" I added as I hung up the receiver.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

By Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

NOT MUCH IS OBVIOUS

Many things about bridge are not what they seem at first. The proportion of the utterly obvious to the rest of the game is extremely small. Even such a thing as using your defensive ace on the first round of a suit, when there is a singleton of it in the dummy, may appear axiomatic at your initial glance and the contrary when you have given a bit of study to the matter.

♣ K Q 6 3

(Dealer: East. Both sides vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
1♣	1♥	Pass	4♥

Just notice what occurred here because East did what he considered the obvious. West led the club 9, and East used his A automatically in view of the dummy having a singleton. Otherwise he would not get any trick with his A, as he reckoned. After he then returned the diamond K to the A, South led a heart to his own A, refusing the finesse, and promptly discarded two diamonds from the dummy on his club K and Q.

After that the defenders could not get any tricks in diamonds, but only one in each major, so that the contract was made.

Simple concentrated thinking by East, when his partner led the club 9, should have told him it was 100 to 1 South had both the K and Q of the suit. Such being so, if the A was held up and South allowed to win the trick, there would have been no way to make the contract. Besides the two certain tricks in the majors, there would have been two in diamonds, or else one in diamonds and one in clubs if South saw fit to toss a diamond on the losing club Q.

Holiday Dance, Annual Party Held by Girls

Holiday activities of Assembly No. 32, Order of Rainbow for girls, include the Christmas party at the K. of P. hall and the semi-formal dance at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. Vic Day's orchestra furnished the music for dancing at the latter affair, which was held on Dec. 19. The worthy advisor, Jean Buell, and her escort led the grand march, which ended with the couples forming a large "V." Group singing of "The Star Spangled Banner" was led by Mary McCartney.

At the annual party, the girls prepared and filled a large basket for a needy family. Refreshments were served and a gift exchange was enjoyed. Dorothy Ohler was in charge of the refreshments and Winifred Bauer was chairman of the exchange of presents. Virginia Davis, grand soloist of the Ohio Assembly, sang "Holy Night," and the Rainbow choir presented "Oh, Little Town of Bethlehem" and "Silent Night."

Curiosities About Greeting Cards

IN VICTORIAN England, Jonathan King, whose hobby was collecting greeting cards, amassed a collection that filled 700 volumes, weighed between six and seven tons, and contained about 163,000 different items.

* * *

A Christmas card sent to cheer a soldier recently came back marked "return to sender; service suspended." The soldier's address had been: Corregidor Fortress, Manila Bay.

THE Baltimore Sun cites as an example of Gob Humor the following joke from the U. S. S. Tennessee Tar:

A sailor was looking over greeting cards. Saleslady: "Here's a lovely sentiment—'To the only girl I ever loved'."

Sailor: "That's fine. I'll take five—no six—of those."

The family of Russ Columbo, the movie actor who died nearly eight years ago, has kept his aged and ailing mother in ignorance of her son's death. She had been led to believe he is making pictures in London. Among other devices to continue the necessary deception, relatives send her greeting cards signed with Russ' name.

IN ADDITION to greeting cards designed to signalize thirteen and more conventional holidays during the year, like New Year and Thanksgiving, the practical joker can find cards that celebrate Income Tax day, Groundhog day, Repeal day and so forth.

MARRIED 51 YEARS

BUCYRUS — Now embarking on their 51st year, Mr. and Mrs. William Kibler marked the golden wedding anniversary with open house for 150 relatives and friends at their North Robinson road home Sunday, observing the anniversary which fell on Dec. 22, prematurely. The couple's children, Harold and Ralph and Mrs. M. M. McAdams, assisted in entertaining.

Give Celebrations That Are Clever, Yet Inexpensive

Holiday celebrations should be inexpensive and simple this year, but there is no need for them to be "plain." Clever and attractive ideas have not been frozen and they dress up the simplest of parties. They are not necessarily out of the question because your budget is limited—everyone must economize these days.

You will probably prepare holiday punch for your guests. Even though it can't be an elaborate, special one, add a festive note. Make decorative ice cubes. It's easy to do.

Instead of using plain water, fill the ice trays of your refrigerator half full with your favorite carbonate beverage. When partly frozen, place a green or red cherry in the center of each cube. If you like, add a few mint leaves, too. Then finish filling the trays with more carbonated beverage and continue the freezing process.

Besides winning a 100 per cent rating for attractiveness, decorative ice cubes made of carbonated beverages are practical. The punch is not diluted with water when ice cubes are made from soft drinks.

Try this novel trick at your holiday parties and maintain your title of "clever hostess" despite war economy.
